Exert Effort to Bring Out Bill On Neutrality

No Sign of Ground Gain To Get It Up For a Vote

WASHINGTON, July 8 — (AP) — Administration lieutenants engaged in a desperate effort today to round up sufficient votes to bring the neutrality bill out of the Foreign Affairs committee, but there was no sign they had gained any ground.

Both senators George (D-Ga.) and Gillette (D-Iowa), regarded as the two "doubtful" senators on the committee, refused to commit themselves on how they will vote when the committee meets Tuesday to consider reporting a bill.

George told reporters, however, that it appeared to him "highly improbable" there would be any action on neutrality in this session.

"If the statement which was issued yesterday in behalf of 34 senators can be accepted as a statement of fact x x x it seems to me that action at this session of Congress is highly improbable," he said.

The statement, pledging its adherents to oppose repeal of the present law's embargo on arms shipments to nations at war—which the administration has set as its chief objective—was issued by Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) after nearly a score of senators, including Democrats, Republicans and Senator La Follette (Prog.-Wis.) had met in his office.

The situation within the foreign affairs committee was reported tonight to be: Ten members opposed to the administration's program or to reporting any bill; eleven ready to go along with the administration; George and Gillette, uncommitted.

Postponement Proposed

With this the apparent line-up, an informal strategy committee of the group opposing the administration's proposal, meeting in Senator Johnson's office today, discussed the advisability of offering a motion in the committee to postpone consideration of all neutrality legislation until the next session of Congress. Besides Johnson, senators La Follette, Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Nye (R-ND) attended.

Members of this group were said to feel that a motion of this sort

Father Pleads For Life Of Son

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 8—(AP)—A gray-haired, dignified former prosecutor, cast in the role of defense attorney for his son, took the witness stand today in an effort to save his flesh and blood from the state's lethal gas chamber.

Robert M. Burgunder told a jury his son, Robert, denied to him that he killed two Phoenix automobile salesmen as the state charges. Instead, the 22-year-old former collegian insisted an unnamed "second party" shot to death Jack Peterson and Ellis M. Koury, whose bodies were found, bound and gagged, in a desert wash near here.

The father, in a dramatic and emotional recital, testified an overwhelming desire to gamble on slot machines led his son first into the Washington reformatory on a robbery charge and culminated in his being involved in the salesmen's deaths.

He quoted Robert as telling him the second party was waiting on the desert when the youth arrived with the two men at gun point. But, added the one-time Seattle prosecutor, his son steadfastly refused to name the killer.

"The other car was waiting," Burgunder quoted Bob as telling him. "The salesmen were made to get out of the car. Peterson threw his pocketbook on the ground and was tied up. Koury was told to get to his feet.

"The gun then was given to the second party. While Bob was getting ready to tie Koury the shots were fired."

"The shootings of these men were so unnecessary, so cowardly, so useless," the father testified his son said.

Boxing Czar Weds Heiress

GREENWICH, Conn., July 8—(AP)—Jefferson Davis Dickson, Natchez, Miss., farm boy, who became the boxing czar of Europe, and Louise Wedell Mastbaum, Philadelphia, heiress, were married here tonight.

The bride is the daughter of the late Jules E. Mastbaum, department store and theater magnate and donor of the $1,000,000 Rodin Institute in Philadelphia.

Dickson operates the Palais Des Sportes in Paris, where he met the bride two years ago, shortly after his reported engagement to Sonja Henie was broken.

Try To Raise Squalus This Week

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 8—(AP)—Cheered by work exceeding their expectations, U. S. navy officers expressed hope tonight the first actual lifting of the sunken submarine Squalus could begin "Monday or Tuesday" as salvagers lowered three pontoons and were ready to lower a fourth.

Salvagers aboard the submarine rescue vessel Falcon had been working around the clock to speed the raising of the Squalus, which plunged 240 feet to muddy bottom during a test dive off this port, May 23.

Claim Forgery On Bonds Used By Dr. Smith

Declared Name Of Late Governor Allen Was Used

BATON ROUGE, La., July 8.—(AP)—State Attorney General David M. Ellison said tonight the name of the late governor O. K. Allen clearly had been forged on $118,000 bonds used by the resigned Louisiana state university president, Dr. James Monroe Smith, now imprisoned here in the Parish jail, in his fantastic market speculations.

Ellison, together with Frank S. Shattuck, state supervisor of public funds, disclosed that Dr. Smith had available nearly $2,000,000 university bonds, most of them unauthorized securities, for his market plunging.

Concerning the $118,000 bonds, Ellison said:

"We are certain they were forged. The bonds were found mutilated with the signatures torn off but we have photographs of these bonds before they were thus destroyed and the signature of Governor Allen obviously is a forgery as compared with Allen's signature as reproduced correctly in facsimile on the bond coupons."

Governor Allen died in office in January, 1936.

Both Ellison and Shattuck said they lacked evidence sufficient to allow them to name the forger.

District Attorney Charles A. Byrne at New Orleans said today he would file bills of information next week charging Dr. Smith with forgery.

Previously, District Attorney Dewey Sanchez here said he anticipated further grand jury indictments against Smith here charging the bald educator with "forgery of public bonds and records."

To date Smith is indicted simply for embezzling $100,000 L. S. U. funds.

More Babies In France Desired

PARIS, July 8—(AP)—The French cabinet was reported in political circles today to be putting finishing touches on a campaign for more babies for France.

Premier Daladier's government was expected to put measures designed to end the nation's declining birth rate into effect by using his dictatorial decree powers.

Births in 1938 decreased from the 1937 total while deaths increased and in both years deaths exceeded births. At the same time, France's two great totalitarian neighbors, Germany and Italy, the former with about twice France's 42,000,000 population and the other running ahead of the French total, both showed substantial net gains.

Germany's 1937 margin of births over deaths was 482,000; Italy's 1938 margin was 424,000. France's margin of deaths over births was 34,741 in 1938 and 11,841 in 1937.

A cabinet meeting with President Albert Lebrun, whose signature on decrees is necessary to make them into laws, was called for Tuesday morning.

Daladier, who has two sons, emphasized the importance he places on the campaign by accepting an invitation to preside at the closing session of the French Natality Congress. It will be the first time a French premier has recognized the organization officially.

Bank Bandit Is Slain During A Gun Battle

Funds Stolen In Earlier Holdup On Victim at Sidney

SIDNEY, Neb., July 8—(AP)—The guns of a special officer who had received his badge an hour earlier, and a Plainsland police chief cut down one bank bandit suspect and sent his partner racing from town with a hostage in a gun battle at Sidney's main business intersection today during the Saturday afternoon shopping rush.

Tonight ranchers, hastily organized into informal posses, state police, federal agents and other officers scoured the plains for a trace of the second man, suspected of having joined earlier with the dead man in the $5,000 to $10,000 robbery of the Fort Morgan, Colo., Farmer's State Bank.

The suspect killed was struck in the head by a bullet fired by Special Officer Harvey Vizina, garage employe who had been sworn in by Police Chief S. H. Moore when the later received a report the Fort Morgan suspects might be heading for Sidney.

Kidnaped a Farmer

The second man kidnaped Glen Oldenberg, a farmer, and raced to freedom across the broad plains of the Nebraska panhandle.

Officers said the dead man had $524 in his pocket and a bag he carried contained $5,000 to $10,000, the amount taken earlier today by two bandits who held up the Fort Morgan bank and menaced 15 persons. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were reported en route to Sidney from Denver to take charge of the money.

The dead man carried no means of identification.

Moore related he received a report the bandit suspects had stolen an automobile at Kimball, Neb., and were headed toward Sidney. Deputizing Vizina, he lay in wait at the edge of this town of 3,300 persons.

As the suspects passed, Moore and Vizina gave chase into the center of town and into an alley, where Moore shot a tire from the escaping car. It crashed into a pole and the men ran.

Firing as they fled, the bullets puncturing automobiles and buildings, the gunmen finally separated.

Vizina shot one as he climbed into a car, the other escaped from the wounded police chief, who was

Boys Accused In Local Thefts

Four young Sedalia boys, LeRoy Billy, Alfred and Harry Paxton, three cousins, and Philip Baldwin, whose ages range from 12 to 15, will appear in juvenile court, in the circuit court room Tuesday morning, to answer to charges of robbery.

Informations filed Saturday afternoon charge as follows:

LeRoy Billy and Alfred Paxton and Philip Baldwin, charged with entering the store of M. L. Hopper, Main street and Grand avenue, and taking merchandise valued at $10.

Philip Baldwin, LeRoy Billy and Harry Paxton, charged with robbing the Hoffman Hardware store of four cycles and two Stilson wrenches, valued at $7 or $8.

Philip Baldwin and LeRoy Billy Paxton, charged with taking $3.50 in cash and cigarettes, gum and candy valued at about $2 from the Green Pastures.

Police officers also charge these boys with being implicated in the robberies of the Bond Grocery store, Dr. Pepper Company and the Looney Bloess Lumber Company.

Philip Baldwin, 15, is now under parole from the state reformatory. He was sentenced in April for two years for entering the Hurlbut Printing Company and taking some merchandise. He was paroled to his parents.

Apology Made By Japanese

SHANGHAI, July 8—(AP)—Japanese naval authorities in Shanghai apologized to British naval officers today for endangering the British gunboat Falcon in yesterday's raid by Japanese war planes on Chungking.

Doors of the vessel were blown in and waves washed over her low decks when bombs fell near her anchorage.

A Japanese naval spokesman at the same time warned the French that if there were future cases in which Chinese used the French flag, the Japanese would not "respect the French flag as a neutral banner."

He referred to the alleged raising of a French flag over a building on Chusan Island, off Ningpo.

Stark To Make Three Speeches

Off Today With Missourians For Fair at 'Frisco

JEFFERSON CITY, July 8—(AP)—Missouri's Gov. Lloyd C. Stark will board a special train tomorrow for a "non-political" tour of the west—a trip that will include at least three speeches and visits with the governors of four states.

The Missouri executive who attracted national attention during two eastern trips that followed his successful upheaval of Boss Tom Pendergast's Kansas City organization, carefully took politics out of the western trip.

But seasoned Missouri politicians—Stark friends and foes alike—are keeping a keen ear for the reaction to the trip to the San Francisco world fair.

Stark will be the No. 1 passenger on the "Missouri Special," chartered to take Missourians to their state's "Honor Day" at the fair. Among others with him on the train will be one of his most relentless and powerful adversaries—Rep. John D. Taylor (D), Keytesville.

M. U. Band On Trip

A full uniformed Missouri band of 60 pieces will make the trip, playing concerts at stops enroute. A "typical Missouri meal"—fried ham and corn bread—will be served visitors on the train.

Stark will make his first appearance outside Missouri at Denver Monday morning where he and his party will have breakfast with Gov. Ralph L. Carr of Colorado. He will make a five minute radio talk (NBC 9:30 a. m. MST) during the Denver stop.

Gov. Roy D. Ayers of Montana will meet the Missourians at Billings and conduct them on a tour of Yellowstone Park.

Gov. Clarence D. Marton of Washington will board the train at Spokane Wednesday and will be dinner guests of the Starks aboard.

When the "Missouri Special" reaches California a week from Sunday the party will be greeted by Gov. C. L. Olson and his staff.

In addition to the Denver talk, Stark will speak before the American Nurserymen's association at Portland Thursday, July 13, and at a "Missouri Banquet" in San Francisco Sunday, July 16.

The executive emphatically took personal "politics" out of the trip this week with his declaration:

"This trip is not to sound out political sentiment for any individual or individuals."

Friends, however, expect him to discuss the Stark-Pendergast struggle in some of his appearances. It has been the subject of most of his recent speeches.

Legion To Further Plans For Rally

Navy Pushes to Lay New Keels

After Delays The Building Up Of Vessels 'Clicks"

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—The navy, pushing construction of $1,300,000,000 worth of warships, will lay the keels of four new craft within the next ten days.

Materials meanwhile are being manufactured and collected at navy and commercial shipbuilding yards for a score of other craft, including five battleships. The first rivets of those ships will be hammered probably in a few weeks.

The keel of a sixth battleship, the 35,000-ton South Dakota, was laid July 5, at Camden, N. J.

After repeated delays, American warship building, by all indications, is "clicking." Assistant Secretary Charles Edison used the term in allotting work on 24 craft last month, weeks before the actual funds voted by Congress, were available.

The next keels to be laid are:

July 14, destroyer Monssen, Puget Sound navy yard, Bremerton, Wash.

July 17, destroyer Grayson, Charleston, S. C., navy yard.

July 19, destroyer Tuna, and the submarine tender Fulton, both at Mare Island, Calif., navy yard.

The start of work on these four and the South Dakota will swell to 78 the number of vessels actually on the way or in the final stages of completion.

By the end of the year, allowing for vessels to be completed in the meantime, a fleet of about 90 warcraft will be building. Two 8,000-ton cruisers of a new design, about which Edison said the navy was "not doing much talking," are to be started probably in September.

The dates for formal laying of keels on five battleships, two of them of record 45,000-ton size, remain to be scheduled.

Forgery Charge On Boy Fifteen

William Moles, 15-year-old La Monte youth, is held in the county jail, a charge of forgery pending against him. He will be given a hearing in juvenile court, at a special session called by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman for 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The youth is charged with altering and raising checks signed by Mrs. W. S. Painter, an aged woman of La Monte, for whom he often performed chores, such as cutting grass and other jobs around her home.

The information charges Moles with raising a check for fifty cents given him on March 18, to $50; raising one for $1.50 to $150 on April 18, and on May 22 with raising one for fifty cents to $50. Officers state that the youth has admitted altering a number of other checks, of smaller denominations. According to them he told them Mrs. Painter asked him to make out the body of the check and she attached her signature. They were made out in the right amount and raised, he told the officers, after Mrs. Painter had signed them.

One of the checks was made to Moles, the other two in the information were made to "self" and endorsed by Mrs. Painter.

Walkout In WPA, Ranks Is Still Effective

Green Calls For Battle On Hours Of Work Added

By The Associated Press

A nationwide walkout of WPA workers continued yesterday (Saturday), while the American Federation of Labor and Work Projects Administrators arranged separate meetings for Wednesday to discuss this unprecedented protest against longer working hours for persons on relief.

William Green, president of the AFL, summoned his union presidents to Washington "to organize all the political and economic strength we possess" to battle the new 130-hour-a-month relief law.

The new act dispenses with union wage scales which previously prevailed for skilled workers, and under which many of them worked 40 or 50 hours a month for the same pay now allowed for 130 hours.

All state WPA administrators were called to Chicago on the same date, July 12, for a two-day conference. The administrators generally have disputed AFL claims that 100,000 men are on strike.

Col. F. F. Harrington, national WPA commissioner, said reports from 36 states showed 75,000 had quit work.

Senator Murray (D-Mont) said he would introduce an amendment to eliminate the 130-hour clause and that at least 10 other senators would be joint sponsors.

Complaints Be Taken Up

In New York, U. S. District Attorney John T. Cahill advised the WPA administrator, Col. Brehon Somervell, that any complaints of interference with WPA operations would be laid before a grand jury.

Cahill said the law "speaks for itself."

He quoted it in part: "Any person who knowingly by means of any fraud, force, threat, intimidation or boycott, or discrimination on acocunt of race, religion, political affiliations or membership in a labor organization, deprives any person of any of the benefits to which he may be entitled...or attempts to do so, or assists in so doing, shall be deemed guilty of a felony".

Col. Somervell had intimated his belief that the law might apply to picketing, the refusal of dealers to deliver materials to WPA projects, and to sympathy acts by non-WPA men.

Bernard Tassler, press representative of the AFL in New York, contended the WPA would be 90

Vote Tuesday On Franchise

A special election will be held in the city of Sedalia, Tuesday, July 11, giving the voters of Sedalia an opportunity to express their opinion, approval or disapproval, of a renewal of the franchise now held by the City Light and Traction Company.

There will be four voting places, as follows:

First ward, Engine house No. 2.
Second ward, Jefferson school.
Third ward, Washington school.
Fourth ward, Broadway school.

Polls open at 6 o'clock in the morning and close at sunset, or about 7 o'clock.

The franchise, granting the company the authority to supply and sell electricity and electric current in the city, maintain and operate an electric power plant and all necessary equipment in the city, shall be for a period of twenty years.

The franchise will have no effect on the electric rates, which are fixed by the Public Service Commission of the state.

The matter of a franchise was formerly in the hands of the city council. The law has been changed and it is now necessary to submit the matter to the voting public, and if approved the council then passes an ordinance, the contents of which have appeared daily in the Democrat and Capital. The franchise is not exclusive and does not permit any other company entering the field.

The group is one of 45 developing a long time waterway planning program for the nation.

Governor Signs Bill For Control Over K. C. Police

Drafts Four As Members Of New Board

Penholders Were Hurried Away

JEFFERSON CITY, July 8—(AP)—When Gov. Lloyd C. Stark sat down to sign the police bill today three wooden penholders were before him—one black, one red, one yellow.

"Where did those things come from?" asked the executive.

A secretary hurried the penholders away and formalities waited 20 minutes. When he returned he had three black fountain pen desk sets. Stark presented them as souvenirs to Reps. W. B. Weakley (D), Pike county, author of the bill; William Barton (R), minority floor leader, and house speaker pro tem Ed R. Caldwell (D), Ralls county. They helped fight the police bill battle in the house.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 8—(AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark signed "House Bill 688" today, and control of Kansas City's police department passed into his hands—prize trophy of his long relentless war on Boss Tom Pendergast's crumbling organization.

Immediately the governor "drafted four Kansas City business and professional men to supervise the department under state control and told them:

"I have every confidence you will break the vicious alliance between crime and politics."

Replied one of their number:

"I desire to pledge our best efforts in carrying out your program. We are possessed with the feeling that all good people of Kansas City will back us in our efforts to carry on."

Stark used a familiar administration device in "drafting" his new police board.

Shook at The Head

At its head he put Edgar Shook, until today a Kansas City election commissioner and long regarded as Stark's No. man in Kansas City. It was Shook's original appointment to the election board that aroused Pendergast to the angry criticism which first brought the Stark-Pendergast split into the open.

Shook is a lawyer. These three business men will serve with him as police commissioners:

Russell F. Greiner, George A. Fiske and M. B. Schweiger. Fiske is a Republican. The others are Democrats. A bi-partisan feature of the police bill was removed by the legislature.

Today's action was a calm and formal finale to an administration goal that pitched the 60th general assembly into one of the bitterest tangles a Missouri legislature ever went through. Stark sprung the police bill as a legislative surprise in March and from that time until the bill finally reached his desk two weeks ago it kept the legislature in a turmoil.

Since then the governor has been working night and day selecting the men he would place on the police board—similar to the boards which control police departments in St. Louis and St. Joseph.

Ouster Suit Pending

With the police control in his hands, Stark had one major offensive against the Kansas City Democratic organization still pending. An administration-directed suit is in the supreme court to oust W. W. Graves, indicted Jackson county prosecutor, and Sheriff James L. Williams on charges of neglect of duty. Neither case has been set for hearing by the court.

The governor, wearing a white linen suit, walked into the oval executive reception room—apart

Fled In Terror From Dolezal

Question Suspect Further In 'Torso Murder' Cases

CLEVELAND, July 8—(AP)—A young woman reported tonight she had to jump from a second story window to escape a knife in the hands of Frank Dolezal, 52, who Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell said, has confessed the slaying of Mrs. Florence Polillo, third of Cleveland's 12 torso killing victims.

Sheriff O'Donnell said the 22-year-old negro woman who lives in the neighborhood of Dolezal's apartment related:

"I was in Dolezal's room a week ago when he came at me with a knife. I jumped out of a second story window to get away from him. The heel of one of my shoes was broken when I landed."

The woman, whose name was withheld, was brought in for questioning after a tip to O'Donnell that she had heard a scream on the night that Mrs. Polillo was slain. She denied hearing any scream, but she said she had known Mrs. Polillo and then told the story of her jump.

The sheriff and deputies continued questioned Dolezal tonight in an effort to learn more details of his conflicting stories how he disposed of the missing head of Mrs. Polillo.

Dolezal also was questioned about the other torso murders.

"He flies off the handle when those other murders are mentioned," O'Donnell reported. "We're still not satisfied with his confession about the murder of Mrs. Polillo and there are some things we want him to tell us."

Step Nearer Solution

The story revealed by a thumb print from the severed hand of a woman led deputies to a pile of bones today and a step nearer solution of at least one of the bizarre mysteries of the headless dead.

The thumbprint showed the victim to be Mrs. Florence Polillo, 42. Immediately the investigation focused upon the vicinity of her home and on a search for her friends.

This week the trail, nearly four years old, led to the first confession in the entire series of decapitations.

And today it brought authorities within a stone's throw of the Kingsbury Run section where four of the other bodies were found. There, deputies uncovered a dozen small bones at a spot where Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell said Frank

Last House Left by Flood Is Destroyed

JACKSON, Ky., July 8—(AP)—The last house in nearby Vancleve, Ky., a town of 75, left by Wednesday's sudden floods was destroyed by fire today.

Sheriff Walter Deaton, investigating evidence of incendiarism, said four armed men approached John Banks, guarding the structure and ordered him away a few minutes before the house caught fire.

Appointment To Mrs. Mary Ryder

JEFFERSON CITY, July 8—(AP)—Mrs. Mary E. Ryder, executive director of the state blind commission for several years, was appointed referee of the workmen's compensation commission today by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark.

She will succeed Earl H. Shackelford, recently named commissioner of labor. Mrs. Ryder's successor on the blind commission was not announced.

Rumors that the St. Louis woman would be removed from the blind commission developed during the latter days of the 60th general assembly. She opposed the governor's unsuccessful attempt to transfer the administration of blind pensions to the state social security commission and thus qualify the pension program for federal funds.

The Means Of Danzig Settlement Are At Hand

Whether the Danzig affair comes to crisis and war, no one yet knows.

But if it does, it is just as well for the world to remember that there is not the faintest excuse for this happening.

The means of a peaceful Danzig settlement are at hand. Danzig is an artificial political creation of the Versailles Treaty, whose administration is in the hands of the League of Nations.

The league's commissioner, Dr. Karl Burckhardt, is on hand in that city. He is a Swiss, and therefore neutral in the Danzig controversy. He is a scholarly man, devoted to peace and justice.

Let it be granted that the league is not what it ought to be, nor even what it was. Let it be granted that Germany is no longer a member of the league, and therefore no longer bound by it.

Nevertheless, not enough is being said about the fact that the Danzig situation can be peaceably settled. If it is not, it will be because somebody doesn't want to settle it peaceably.

Both Germany and Poland have claims in Danzig. The Germans have a claim to the city based on the fact that most of its people are German and presumably would like to come under the German system. The Poles have a claim based on the fact that their country must have free access to the Baltic.

Very well. Are these claims mutually exclusive?

Is there no way in which Germany could have Danzig, yet Poland be assured of a free outlet to the Baltic for its growing commerce? There must be such a way, given the merest shred of the will to find it.

The Poles have developed their own port city of Gdynia on the Baltic. What they need is assurance of the use of that port, equal assurance with Germany that they can use the Vistula basin which runs up through the neutralized corridor to the open Baltic and the world's trade. The Poles have in large part abandoned Danzig anyway, as a shipping point. Germany claims it wishes only to restore Germans to the Reich.

What a silly thing to have a world war about! Here are two neighbor nations at daggers drawn over the kind of question that sensible, sane men are settling every day all over the world. And here a neutral referee is ready, willing, and anxious to co-operate in finding a solution which will give each party most of what he wants.

Failure to make use of the league commissioner on the spot at Danzig will show the world that what is desired is not a just solution, but an excuse for doing something else that has nothing to do with the actual needs or rights of the parties involved.

Short Waves And Sense

The great 100-kilowatt short-wave radio station at Schenectady for broadcasting to South America is ready.

The United States enters this game late, but it has the advantage of the experience of European governments which have been for several years blanketing South America with radio programs.

This is what has been learned: South Americans are smart. Like Hamlet, when the wind is southerly they know a hawk from a handsaw. The German and Italian radio propaganda has backfired badly. Outright propaganda, biased news, hatred of others, envy and deliberate falsification, have made a radio diet on which South Americans first gagged, then choked, and finally sickened.

The best use the American radio facilities can find will be in disseminating good music, cultural material, and news that is straight, true, and later upheld by events. The good will that will result from that will far outmatch any propaganda.

Thanks, M'Lady!

Some person called the Marquess of Donegal is writing pieces for the British press in which she essays to unfold to her London public the American mind.

The east, averred this lady, is against isolation, but she adds that "informed isolation here (the east) is better than middlewestern moronism."

Those are harsh words, m'lady, and scarcely of the most diplomatic. For good middlewestern blood was also shed in France in 1918, and was not unwelcome, we were told, even in London.

But let it pass, let it pass. It is only to be expected that every country will have its morons. The only difference is in the degree of relative distinction they achieve. In some countries, it would appear, such modest mental status is not even a bar to titles of honor and distinction.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Jesse Jones, long-time czar of the RFC and now head of the new Federal Loan Agency, is a unique character.

Six feet three, soft-spoken and as benign as a doting grandfather, he is a combination of hard-boiled, tight-fisted banker, daring big-time gambler, and grandstanding, nimble-footed, wire-pulling politician.

No one has ever heard Jesse raise his voice in anger. He is the gentlest and mellowest of companions. A man of great wealth, he affects no airs, lives quietly and simply, has little to do with the giddy social whirl. He doesn't even play golf. Only recreation is motoring with his wife and an occasional game of bridge with a few intimates.

And Jesse is just as homely in his conversation. He likes to talk about his aching feet, his weak back and the trials and tribulations he went through several years ago with a bad case of shingles. Once he took off his shoes while nobody was looking in Buckingham Palace.

Yet this man built a dozen skyscrapers and the three leading hotels in Houston, Texas; heads the largest bank in that city; is a large-scale realty owner in New York.

His political life is as contradictory as his character. He once granted a $1,500,000 RFC loan to a mortgage company he had controlled; has dished out hundreds of millions to banks, railroads and insurance companies—but despite all this big business generosity, he has treated small businessmen as if they were unwanted step-children.

Grabbed Convention

In 1928, he walked into a meeting of the Democratic National Committee, planked down a $200,000 check and walked out with the party's national convention scheduled for Houston. Houston didn't have a hall big enough to hold it at that time. But a big wooden structure was erected, and the delegates sweltered and show in the blistering heat and the jam-packed hotels.

Jesse did right well by himself. He owned the hotels, restaurants and theatres. Also he got himself a big splash of national publicity with a flamboyant, though unsuccessful, vice presidential boom.

In the political arena of Washington there has been no smoother and wilier operator than Jesse Jones.

Appointed by Hoover, through the influence of Jack Garner (then Speaker of the House), Jesse appeared doomed for the shelf when the New Deal stormed into office. Yet in a few months he was more potent than ever.

Near Secretary

Not only had he wrangled himself into the chairmanship of the RFC but he had sold Roosevelt on the idea of expanding its activities into newer and bigger business fields. And with this resounding triumph under his belt, Jesse set his cap for Secretary of Treasury, an office which his inside pipelines told him soon would be vacant. (William H. Woodin was in ill health.)

Jesse tried awfully hard for that prize; pulled every wire he could command, swallowed the gold-juggling policy that must have curdled his banker blood, and made himself honey-sweet around the White House. But an old friendship beat him out.

When the late Secretary Woodin finally dropped the Treasury reins, the President turned to Henry Morgenthau, a trusted Dutches County neighbor, and Jesse experienced what was probably the greatest disappointment of his public career.

But if he felt badly about it, no one around him ever saw it. Jesse bounced right back again.

Tight-Fisted Lender

A movement for government loans to small businessmen was neatly corralled by him and fast-stepping lobbying, herded into the RFC. There it was stymied. What he did with this power is summed up in a remark attributed to Senator Carter Glass, hard-bitten New Deal foe, when the lending act was up for renewal several years later. "I'm willing to give it another lease on life because I know Jesse won't use it."

If Jesse kept a tight-fisted grip on the RFC's money bags when it came to little businessmen, he was free indeed with advice to bankers about being open-handed.

In various speeches he lectured them about their obligation to be liberal in extending business credit. The fact that his own bank, the National Bank of Commerce of Houston, had a liquidity of more than 80 per cent—that is, was loaded with cash and bonds instead of loans to business—did not seem to strike Jesse as incongruous. When asked how he explained this, Jesse naively replied that he hadn't read his bank's statement.

Nobody Knows

Throughout all the historic legislative battles of 1936, '37 and '38, nobody knew where Jesse stood on any of the great issues. The inner circles suspected him of secretly opposing the public works spending program. But he never dropped a word in public by which they could call him.

In the SEC he was suspected of secretly fighting Wall Street regulation and aggressive enforcement of the utility holding company act. But, again, he never gave the boys anything into which they could sink their teeth.

Similarly, during the Supreme Court battle, Jesse played 'possum, as he is doing today in the bitter undercover struggle between Vice President Garner and the White House. Neither camp really knows where Jesse stands.

As a Texan and conservative, the Garnerites believe Jesse privately is with them. Certainly he is on the warmest personal terms with the Vice President. Yet he has given no public sign he is for him, and it's a good bet that he won't until Garner can show that he has 1940 in the bag.

Secret Candidate

Real inside is that Jesse has ambitions of his own. There was a time when he dreamed of the White House, but that dream is over. He does, however, fancy himself as a vice presidential dark horse.

Jesse is too much of a realist not to know that he is a long shot. But as long as there is a chance, he is going to give it all the breaks he can. A ticket headed by Garner automatically would count Jesse out. Two Texans can't run on the same ticket.

On the other hand, Jesse is keeping close to Garner because Cactus Jack would come in mighty handy in boosting Jesse into second place if his own boom fizzles.

For a gangling Tennessee farm boy who got his start as a day laborer in an uncle's lumber yard in Dallas, Jesse has come a long way by speaking softly and at the right time. He is hoping to do that again in 1940. Sixty-five years old, it will be his last chance to realize a carefully nurtured ambition.

It Happened In America

The industrial advance in America started with the close of the war of 1812. By autumn of 1814, Frances C. Lowell of Boston had perfected and placed his power-looms in factories. Spinning machinery was also built. English cotton workers did not yet spin yarn and weave under the same roof, so the Lowell Mill, at Waltham, Mass., may possibly be considered the first in the world to carry cloth manufacturing harmoniously through all its steps from raw to finished product. Many New England towns sprung into being. The first savings banks were established in Philadelphia and Boston in 1816, followed by Baltimore in 1818. The Lehigh coal trade flourished, also the manufacture of iron with coal. In 1822 there was a copper rolling mill in Baltimore and manufacture of cotton duck began in Patterson, N. J. Patent leather was first made in United States in 1819.

The Pennsylvania Paul Revere was a man named Will Smith, a magistrate of the Conococheague settlements, who in June, 1755, rushed across the mountain ranges of south central Pennsylvania, changing horses at intervals, and warning the settlers of the uprising of the Indians which started at Fort Pitt, and was headed in the direction of Forts Bedford and Loudon, while Colonel Henry Boquet was in Philadelphia trying to secure recruits for his Royal American regiment. The massacre which followed was one of the worst that had so far been committed anywhere in America, since King Phillip's Great Swamp battle in the Narragansett country in 1675.

The first Jewish settlers came to Newport, Rhode Island as early as 1658, from Holland. They were kindly received and given protection in the colony. Prior to the coming of Rabbi Isaac Touro, a distinguished scholar, theologian, of strong Hebrew devotion, about 1760, there appears to have been a regular organized congregation called Congregation Jeshuat Israel signifying "Salvation of Israel," but no permanent place of worship. Rabbi Touro, with the cooperation of his people built the synagogue which bears his name, dedicated in 1765 and which stands today, the oldest Jewish edifice in America.

Vinnie Ream, noted American sculptress, was born in an Indian village near Madisconsin, Wisc., in 1847. She was talented in music, poetry and drawing. One of her most important works was the life size statute of Abraham Lincoln, in the marble room in the capitol. She also executed the Farragut group in Farragut Square, in Washington. Vinitia, Oklahoma, founded in 1872 was named in her honor. She died in 1914 and is buried in Arlington National cemetery.

General John C. Fremont gave the name of Chrysopyloe, or Golden Gate, to San Francisco bay, for the same reason that the harbor of Byzantium (afterwards Constantinople), was called Chrysoceras, or Golden Horn.

All Day Meet By Economics Club

The Flat Creek Home Economics Extension club met with Mrs. Maud Arnold and Mrs. A. Ball in an all day meeting Tuesday, with twenty-five members and several visitors present.

Mrs. C. G. Ficken demonstrated making home made bread, which demonstration was before lunch. The regular meeting was in the afternoon, opening with members repeating the club collect. Mrs. C. L. Wadleigh led the club singing, and members answered to roll call by giving an inspirational poem.

Mrs. R. L. Wadleigh gave a report on the 4-H club work, of which clubs she is leader. She announced a picnic for the boys and girls Thursday afternoon.

Miss Nona Elliott, program chairman, read several numbers from the Farm Bureau program and Mrs. Vest Elliott read articles from the monthly news letter.

The July meeting will be with Mrs. Karl Brosing, the project to be a book review.

PAR IS LOVE

BY EDWIN RUTT
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Ganning treats Royalton like a son while condemning Barbara's golfing and banjo-playing suitors. When Ganning searches for a banjo, Royalton is forced to hide it under Baskerville's bed. He can take no chances.

CHAPTER V

SHE looked at him with unconcealed admiration. "How clever! I'd have never thought of that."

"When you get as old as I am," said Roy, "you learn to take these precautions. Incidentally, I've been wanting to see you."

"Me? I'm flattered."

"Quit kidding. Your dad's been showing me his museum."

"Oh! You saw the Gobi dinosaur?"

"Yes. Wicked-looking beast, isn't he? The point is, if I don't pretty soon learn something about things like that, I'm going to be in a jam. Your dad thinks I'm an evolutionist."

"Yes. He mentioned you at breakfast."

She smiled at him out of her great eyes. "I think you've got your work cut out for you."

"Just what do you mean?"

"Well, you've got to find out something about evolution, haven't you?"

"Yes."

"And you've got to help me out in various ways."

"Now that," said Roy, "is saying something. That's exactly what I want to do most. Which brings me to this point: Did you know today was Thursday?"

"Of course."

"Well, this golf match is on Saturday. We've got to work fast."

"I don't get you," said Babs.

"I say we've got to work fast or the match will come off."

"Why, of course, it will come off. Why wouldn't it?"

"But if it does, then you've got to marry either Ronald or Wilfrid."

Babs tapped her foot impatiently. "Yes, certainly. We went into all that yesterday."

"We did. But don't you see that circumstances alter cases? I—well, I wasn't consulted about this match."

"You?" Her eyes were wide.

"Yes. In other words, now that I've met you, I—I think we ought to have a new deal all around."

She looked away from him. "What about my word to Ronald and Wilfrid?"

"I've planned for that," said Roy. "As I get the arrangement, that only holds good if the match is played on Saturday morning."

"That's right. But what's to prevent it from being played."

"That," said Roy, "is what we've got to figure out."

"We? You don't expect me to help you, do you?"

HE grinned at her, his gray eyes humorous. "Sort of thought you might. After all, you practically admitted yesterday that you haven't exactly fallen for either Ronald or Wilfrid."

"Well, neither have I . . ." She checked herself and stood looking at the ground.

"Good Lord," exclaimed Roy. "You don't think I was conceited enough to think that, I hope. It's only that—well, I ought to have a fair chance. I oughtn't to be expected to buck a closed corporation."

"But how do you think you can stop the match? You can't kidnap Ron and Wilfrid."

"No. That's out. I've got to consider other ways and means."

"Well," Barbara began moving away, "go to it."

Roy's heart gave a bound. "Does that mean . . ."

THE round face of Mr. Wilfrid Peyton wore a sober and studious look. It was a face, magenta-colored now from exertion, a face possessed of two brown cowlike eyes. Ever and anon as he stood on the Ganning lawn woffling golf shots with machine-like regularity, his white teeth bit painfully into his lower lip and a grim determination brooded about the corners of his mouth. Mr. Wilfrid Peyton was out for blood and his was a nature composed of stern stuff. Absorbed in his work, it was some minutes before he noticed an unfamiliar young gentleman who stood under a hyacinth bush with an expression of sardonic amusement on his face.

"Hey!" he said. "What are you staring at?"

The alien young gentleman shifted his feet. "Me? Oh, nothing much."

"Well then," said Wilfrid, in a mandatory tone, "go and do it somewhere else. I'm busy."

"So I see," said the young man, without moving. "You're building a tennis court, aren't you?"

"Tennis court? What are you trying to do, be funny?"

"Not at all. You're taking up all the grass so I naturally thought you were trying to get at the soil beneath. And that suggests a tennis court, see? It's what you call a deduction. Sherlock Holmes used to make them."

* * *

FOR folderol of this sort Wilfrid had little time. The fellow was a wise-cracker of some kind and under ordinary circumstances he would have replied devastatingly. But serious business lay ahead and he could not be disturbed. He therefore addressed another ball and waggled his club.

"Scram," he advised briefly, and swung.

The ball, barely topped, bounced a few yards and lay beneath a dandelion, looking up at Wilfrid like an accusing white eye.

"Well played," said Roy encouragingly.

Wilfrid turned on him in a fury. "Maybe you could do better."

"I could," said Roy. "Lend me that club."

Wilfrid's wrath rose higher.

"I'll bet you five dollars," he shouted, red in the face, "that you don't hit it first time."

"I'm taking that," said Roy, hefting the club.

There was a sharp neat click. The ball rose majestically and soared away in the direction of the swimming pool. Wilfrid watched it, fascinated. In all his hours of frantic practice he had not achieved a shot like this. His jaw dropped.

Wilfrid stood silent a moment, thinking. Suddenly a crafty expression stole over his face.

"Say," he said, "could you teach me to hit a ball like that?"

Roy looked doubtful. "I don't know. How soon?"

"Oh, by tomorrow night."

Roy shook his head. "Impossible. I'd have to have more time than that."

Wilfrid's eyes were almost pleading. "But you could teach me something, couldn't you? You see, it's very important. I've a match . . ."

"I know all about it," said Roy.

"You? How did you know?"

"It's—er—well, it's common knowledge in the—ah—in the servants' quarters."

"I see. Well now, here's the position: I'm no good, of course. But Ron isn't either. If you could show me anything at all, I'd have an edge on him. So what about it? You don't care who wins, do you?"

"No-o-o," said Roy carefully. "But wouldn't you be stealing a march on our brother?"

"Hang it," cried Wilfrid. "He'd steal one on me if he could. This is vital with me, Mr. . . . ah . . ."

"Herring."

"Mr. Herring. Now look! You can name your own price."

"Oh, we won't argue about the price. If I do it, I—er—do it for the love of the game. But it isn't fair to your brother."

"My brother? He'd jump at the chance if he were in my place. It's just my good luck that I found you first. Come on! How's about it?"

"All right," said Roy suddenly. "I will. On one condition."

Stunter Warns On Crack-Ups

Flash Williams, stunt star of more than 175 movies and survivor of more than 1,100 intentional automobile crack-ups, who leads the group of daredevils heading the Thrill Day program of the 1939 Missouri State Fair, August 19-26, thinks all stunt drivers are crazy. That is, all with the exception of himself. You see, Flash Williams declares he uses science and skill; even if he breaks his neck in the performances here it will be a scientific neck-breaking, according to the dauntless Mr. Williams.

Williams has developed into a high degree the hair-line between not killing himself and providing the fans with a thrill. He has broken ribs and legs and other parts of his anatomy, of course, but "that is something which any good thrill driver must expect occasionally," he calmly asserts.

In the fifteen different performances which Flash Williams will give here, he demonstrates in one of them how NOT to drive. This is part of his safety program, endorsed by national safety councils. There are at most only a few salient rules which must be observed for auto safety on city streets and on the highways, he says, and with his many automobiles he presents these rules in a vivid fashion.

The motion picture star of "Robin Hood" and "Test Pilot" has been asked by many city governments to give talks before representative safety groups on the dangers of driving. A man who makes his living courting death with a car, those groups seem to think, is much more qualified to speak on these dangers than is a novice. But Flash has only a few simple rules. He doesn't try to tell how to crash through a burning wall as he does, nor does he pretend to give instructions on how to smash two cars in mid-air. He will leave his famous T-bone crash to himself and his drivers. But he will tell you this:

Don't drive into a car on the highway in a tremendous emergency; take the ditch. There will be less breakage of glass and less injury to all concerned.

Never shut off the motor in an accident. That is all right for airplanes, but in a car it will clog the gas and increase the danger of an explosion. Keep your foot on the accelerator. It makes a flow of fuel.

Do not take your hands off the wheel. That is the only absolute control of the car.

Never brake on a curve. Do that before approaching the curve. If there is a blowout, do not brake suddenly. Feed the car a diminishing amount of gasoline and then go to a stop. Save your life and save your car—and do not try to save the tire.

If the car ever plunges into water, don't try to open the door if the car is submerged. The water pressure will waste those precious seconds. Roll down a window, hold your breath and then struggle to freedom and life.

Thrill Day has been set for August 26, the final day of the 39th annual Missouri State Fair, which begins Saturday, August 19, and lasts through eight days.

V. F. W. To Have Bond Burning

Harry C. O'Neill, commander of Post 2508, Veterans of Foreign Wars, also the senior member of the trustees of that organization, announces that at the next regular post meeting, the evening of July 11th, he would, in the presence of all members present, burn all redeemed bonds against the post. These bonds are the ones sold last winter to raise funds for the post home, and which have since been redeemed, with the exception of about $50 worth, not yet located.

Mr. O'Neill stated that collecting the bonds for redemption was harder than selling the bonds, although they are being redeemed at face value. He also said that part of the outstanding bonds probably would be located and redeemed before the evening of the next meeting and if so, all outstanding indebtedness of Post 2508 will be paid.

Shorter Session Shannon's Desire

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—Since the "lame duck" sessions of congress were abolished "we have had nothing but perpetual sessions of this body," Representative Shannon (D-Mo) said today in condemning prolonged terms of the house.

"In some forceful way we should get back what we used to have and occasionally return home instead of having perpetual sessions of congress," he said.

His remarks came after Speaker Bankhead asked permission to take a week's vacation.

"I think the house should take notice of the condition that has arisen in view of the change and in view of the injury to health of members resulting from forcing them to stay here during this terrible Washington weather," he said.

Army regulations require that pilots be equipped with parachutes while flying in army aircraft. Also, that two parachutes be worn on all training jumps.

Barrett was defeated by more than two to one in a primary last March when he sought re-election. H. L. Wilson, who won the Democratic nomination, was elected without opposition in April, served a few weeks and resigned because of ill health.

CABLE BREAK FOUND

If a cable breaks on the ocean floor the point broken can be ascertained within a short distance. A broken telephone line between here and Kansas City can be located within a few pole lengths right in the office in Sedalia. It is done by precision electrical instruments.

Many chiropractors use precision instruments which locate points of irritation of nerves with uncanny accuracy, thereby locating the cause of one's illness.

Such points of irritation apparently cause "leaks" of the energy passing through the nerves. Numerous such points of irritation cause much waste of energy with ensuing fatigue. Continued fatigue may result in disease or at least predisposes one to disease. Therefore minor points of irritation or pain, in any part of the body, should be looked for and corrected. Even minor irritation, if continued long enough, causes disease. Chiropractors locate and remove these disease producing conditions.

Who Profits?

When the out of town solicitor attempts to sell you a re-siding job, either of Asbestos Siding or Bric Type Siding, just ask yourself that question. Every good business transaction benefits both buyer and seller and usually the surrounding community. However, when the high pressure salesman tries to sell you this siding job stop a minute and ask yourself the question, WHO DOES PROFIT?

DO You? No.

While it may be a very good thing to do to have your home re-sided with a Bric Type Siding or Asbestos Siding, or Shingles, why should you pay an out of town company many dollars more when you can have the job done by a local company? The out of town company has to pay expenses and salary of the salesman, the traveling expenses and traveling overhead of their application crew, as well as the higher overhead of their office back in the city. Also, who is going to take care of any complaints that might occur a year or two from now? It would be difficult to find the out of town salesman then.

Does Sedalia? No.

Does the out of town company pay taxes or spend its money received from your work in Sedalia? No. It all goes out of town benefitting no one. They do not pay taxes in Sedalia and help to maintain the streets, schools or any other public institution.

Do City Merchants? Yes.

When Your Money is spent outside of Sedalia, not one dollar of it helps to create business for your fellow citizen, the merchant, here in Sedalia. Not one dollar of it goes into the local bank to build up credit for Sedalia enterprises. Not one dollar of it goes out into the flow of local Sedalia business to find its way eventually back to your pocket.

We are your local roofing dealer. We can give you any type of material that any out of town company can and at many dollars savings to you. Before signing any contracts or any paper of any kind, call us and compare our prices. Many people in other cities where these companies have worked have been deluded into thinking they were going to get all of their investment back because of the advertising value of their job or something of that kind. This is entirely fictitious and don't believe it. In very many cases re-siding your home will be a splendid improvement, however, don't pay a lot more for it than it can be supplied by your local dealer.

Call us for our estimate. We have a stock to show you for immediate delivery.

Give Durocher Pennies For Fine

BROOKLYN, July 8—(AP)—Nobody in this borough of New York likes anything any better than for the Dodgers to battle "them Jints" from over at the Polo grounds.

So today Brooklyn fans presented Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers with a sack full of pennies—2,500 coppers— with which to pay the $25 fine imposed on him for fighting Zeke Bonura at the Polo grounds last Sunday.

The presentation was made by John M. Sarco at today's doubleheader with the Giants.

Clothiers Beat Cole Camp 17-7

The Rosenthal Clothiers kept their record on an upward trend Friday night by defeating the Cole Camp softball team by a score of 17 to 7 on the Cole Camp diamond.

Evans was the leading hitter, getting four hits out of five times at bat and accounting for three of the seventeen runs. Hyatt struck out ten of the Cole Camp batters while Moller, pitching for Cole Camp struck out four.

Red Sox Fire Broadside At Yankees Twice

1st Game Won 3-1 Come Back To Edge Out 3 to 2 Victory

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox fired a double broadside into the big American league lead of the New York Yankees today with two victories, 3 to 1 and 3 to 2, which marked the first time this season the champions have lost a doubleheader.

The Sox now have won five of their last six games with New York, including three in a row in the current series.

Fritz Ostermueller scattered four hits in today's opener and Dennis Galehouse spaced five in the nightcap, while their own attack got to five New York pitchers for timely runs.

In the first game they opened up on Oral Hildebrand with a run in the second inning on three singles and scored their other two tallies in the third on Doc Cramer's double, Jimmy Foxx's safe bunt, Ted Williams' double and Joe Cronin's sacrifice fly.

Galehouse and Rookie Marius Russo locked in a spectacular pitching duel in the nightcap, neither giving a hit until the sixth. But the Red Sox again opened the scoring with a run in the seventh on two singles and an infield out. In the eighth Jim Tabor walked, stole second and scored on Bobby Doerr's double and in the ninth Foxx hit his 13th homer of the season.

The Yanks scored in the seventh on two singles and a sacrifice and in the ninth on a walk, a single and two forceouts.

Charlie Root Tames Reds

The 'Old Man' Cracks Out Homer In Ninth To Win Game 7-6

CINCINNATI, July 8—(AP)—Charlie Root, like Ole Man River, just keeps on rollin' along, winning ball games.

The 40-year-old hurler came onto the scene in a tough spot today and hit a home run in the ninth to give the Chicago Cubs a 7 to 6 victory over the pace-setting Cincinnati Reds. After breaking the knotted score, he retired the Reds in order to end the free-hitting contest.

The Reds overcame a five-run lead to tie up the game in the eighth with a seven-hit bombardment in which McCormick hit a home run with one on base.

In the Cubs' fifth inning splurge that routed Lefty Lee Grissom, Russel doubled, Bartell walked and after Starting Pitcher Claude Passeau hit into a forceout, Hack tripled to send in two runs. Herman got his third straight hit to drive in a tally and after Galan hit safely, Hartnett's double sent in two runs.

Gleeson hit for the circuit in the second inning.

Seth Parker Driven By Frank Ervin Wins

Frank Ervin, who survived the toronado at Wichita, Kansas, June 25, along with his horse, Seth Parker, is still racing and turning in winning cards. Mr. Ervin notified his family here the past week he had won the 2:14 pace $400 purse at the Woodward, Oklahoma, fair the first of the week.

Seth Parker took three straight heats to win the purse.

Following the terrific storm at Wichita, in which several horses and two men were killed, Seth Parker suffered a chill, after being drenched with mud and water during the storm. However, close watching and good nursing brought the Sedalia horse around in time to enter the racing program in Oklahoma.

Mr. Ervin writes that although the horse owners suffered great losses at Wichita, a number of them were able to gather the remnants of their stables together and

Novis Robb Killed By A Pitched Ball

LIGHT, Ark., July 8—(AP)—Novis Robb, 21, catcher for the Stanford club of the Green county amateur baseball league, was killed today when struck in the chest by a pitched ball thrown by Owen Everets, Light hurler. Robb started toward first base but collapsed, dying immediately. No inquest was held. Robb is survived by his parents and three brothers.

THIS afternoon the first games of the Missouri State Semi-Pro baseball tournament will be played, which will start off a week of baseball for Sedalia. Much effort has been put forward by J. Hayden Lucy, state commissioner to bring together teams from Missouri and Arkansas to play off the state tournament.

Much-a-do has come of Al Schrick giving, what the Merchants believe is the "run-around" by taking off Friday night to go to Wichita, Kansas, to pitch for the Kansas City Firemen. Incidentally Schrick won his game 6-0 over the Wichita Solomons, and allowed the Kansas team one lone hit.

Commissioner Lucy has written President Raymond Dumont asking the status of Schrick, as he had already been signed by the Sedalia Merchants to play here, and informed Manager Vint Siegel last Thursday night he would be on hand Sunday (today).

There is no argument that if Schrick remains in the Missouri tournament and plays with the Sedalia Merchants the local club does have possibilities to win the tournament.

An effort is being made for a last minute contact to obtain Gene Horner to pitch for the Merchants. Horner has recently returned from the South where he has been playing minor league baseball.

THE Ionia whirlwind, James "Red" Knoop came through late Saturday to enter the Knoop's Sluggers of Sedalia. Red is determined to give the fans some real baseball, and has enlisted the aid of several former Athletcis including Earl "Potts" Evans, Fred Whitfield, Jake Sumners and Harry Light.

Baseball fans who know "Red" know he will do everything possible to bring together a ball club, not for what's in it but for nothing more than the pure fun of playing baseball. He says he is a good player, and admits he is in the game for nothing more than the fun.

A lot of baseball fans wonder what happened to the box score on the Sedalia Merchants and Garavelli's baseball game played last Tuesday (Fourth of July) night, and there is no alibi to offer. It just didn't get in.

Lost—one bat boy whose duty it was to get the box score from Secretary Simon. Simon had it ready, but the bat boy couldn't remember where it was and Manager Siegel couldn't be found.

To explain to fans why the games are not always covered by Ye Sports Ed, is because Uncle Sam has made it possible for him to work only so many hours. (There's always someone waiting to see you get a pencil out so he can run and tell Uncle and that means trouble not only for the Sports Ed but for the institution from which he draws the "long green" on Tuesday).

However we are for the Sedalia Merchants, or any other home town ball club regardless whether they are sandlotters or semi-pro teams, and solicit their cooperation in getting their box scores into the paper after we are so kind as to give out the advance information that there is to be a game.

FOR the public's information, in the past the newspaper reporter was considered a twenty-four hour worker. Otherwise when a reporters job was finished in the daytime, he would rush out to a fire, a killing, accident or what-have-you after hours.

BUT NOT NOW, new laws make it very embarrassing to not only the reporter but for the paper for which he works. He is not supposed to work after a certain hour, forty-two hours is the limit, and a day off every other week.

And certainly I don't want to make a test case of this low.

Fette Pitches Three-Hit Game

BOSTON, July 8—(AP)—With no Philadelphian going even as far as second base in the face of Lou Fette's masterful three-hit pitching, the Boston Bees handed the Phillies their eleventh straight defeat today by a 4-0 margin, while chalking up their own eleventh victory in their last thirteen games.

It was the fifth shutout Fette has hurled this year, but it is doubtful if he was ever in better form than he was today. Fette's victory was his ninth of the year against three defeats.

First World Mark On Olympic Track

Intensity of effort is clearly stamped on Taisto Maki's face as Finn is first to break world record in 1940 Olympic Stadium in Helsingfors. He ran 5000 meters in 14:08.8.

Browns Split Doubleheader With Indians

Lose First Game 5-3 Come Back in Slugg-Match To Win 10-9

ST. LOUIS, July 8—(AP)—In a free swinging contest, the St. Louis Browns piled up an early lead to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 10 to 9, in the second game of today's twin bill, after they dropped the opener, 5 to 3.

George McQuinn and Chet Laabs cracked out homers to pace the attack in the aftermath, but the Browns almost saw their advantage wiped out when Hal Trosky and Roy Weatherly hit consecutively for the circuit in the ninth inning.

In the opener the Indians took advantage of Vernon Kennedy's wildness and an error by Johnny Berardino in the first inning, and scored three runs on one hit. Kennedy walked in two runners. Joe Gallagher hit a homer.

Shining One Is Derby Winner

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 8—(AP)—Shooting down the stretch like a ray of light, Shining One ran to a spectacular upset victory in the $25,000 Hollywood Derby today.

Overshadowing by supposedly more illustrious 3-year-olds, Shining One came from behind and grabbed the $18,275 winner's purse by a length and a half over Wedding Call and Counterpoise, while the co-favorites in the mile and one quarter event, Viscounty and Teddy Kerry, finished with the also-rans.

Shining One burst into the lead as the field of nine rivals rounded into the turn for home. Jockey Jackie Westrope piloted the Circle M Ranch's star over the route in time equaling the track decord set by Seabiscuit—2 miutes, 3 4-5 seconds.

The race favorite, Roman Hero, was declared out of the derby two hours before post time.

Alice Marble All-England Singles Champ

Meets Queen Mary of England; British Say She's Like Lenglen

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 8—(AP)—Alice Marble, golden-haired girl from San Francisco, beat Kay Stammers for the All-England women's singles tennis championship today and when she walked off the center court to meet Queen Mary, Britain's tennis experts agreed that here at last was another Suzanne Lenglen.

Playing with that relentless rhythm of all true champions and covering the court like some great inhuman golden doll, Mrs. Marble simply swept the beautiful English girl right off the court in 25 minutes and led the American team to one of the greatest triumphs of international sport.

The young American team not only won all five Wimbledon titles as they did last year but even took the men's consolation tournament to make it six. The only title they didn't win was the women's consolation singles.

Here's how they did it:

Bobby Riggs, Chicago, defeated Elwood Cooke, Portland, Ore., 2-6, 8-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 (played yesterday).

Miss Marble defeated Miss Stammers, England, 6-2, 6-0.

Riggs and Cooke defeated Frank Wilde and Charles Hare, England 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 9-7.

3 Riggs and Miss Marble defeated Wilde and Nina Brown, 9-7, 6-1.

Miss Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Cambridge, Mass., defending champions, defeated Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Calif., and Billy Yorke, England, 6-1, 6-0.

Don McNeill, Oklahoma City, defeated J. Van Den Eynde, Belgium, 8-6, 6-2 for All-England plate (consolation).

Think of all the tributes to a great tennis player and Miss Marble had them today as she became the first woman in history of international tennis to hold three American and three All-England titles at the same time.

Annual P. G. A. Tourney Will Start Today

Vote Former Champ Denny Shute Permit To Enter Tourney

By BILL BONI

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—Pending a final vote by the 11-man executive committee, it appeared, likely tonight that the annual championship of the Professional Golfers Association will start on schedule tomorrow morning at the Pomonok Country Club, Flushing, N. Y., with the first 18-hole qualifying round.

The 51 pros who signed a petition demanding that Former Champion Denny Shute be permitted to play despite the fact that he sent in his dues two days late remained adamant. Without those 51, who include Gene Sarazen, U. S. Open Champion Byron Nelson, Ralph Guldahl, Sam Snead, Horton Smith, Jimmy Thomson, Dick Metz, Henry Picard and Jimmy Hines, this wouldn't be a tournament.

To make good the $20,000 guarantee to the sponsors, there has to be a tournament, and there has to be a tournament with names, therefore, even though the last executive committee vote was 8-3 against Shute's participation, there appeared little reason to believe the tourney would not go off as planned.

This evening, as P. G. A. President George Jacobus reaffirmed his personal stand in favor of Shute, the backers of the "reinstate Shute" movement were making all sorts of dire threats. There were odds of 2-1 offered that, without Denny in the field, not one of the tournament committee, including Hines, Metz, Ed Dudley and Jug McSpaden, would start. There were odds of 5-1 that, without Denny, none of the 1937 Ryder Cuppers would tee off.

Meanwhile, there were half a dozen players being rated favorpint-sized Paul Runyan in a recites for the title won last year by ord-breaking 8 and 7 defeat of Snead. This group included the 1938 finalists, as well as Picard, Metz, Nelson and Guldahl. These last five have won every major tournament since the first of the year.

In addition, there was much speculation about what the crack field of 120 would do to Pomonok's park of 72. The course is only 6,354 yards long, and while there are four good-sized par 5 holes on it, there also are half a dozen par 4's of 350 yards or less.

Two 18-hole qualifying rounds will be played tomorrow and Monday. Runyan, automatically eligible, and the 63 low scorers will go into the first round of match play Tuesday morning. That, and the second round Tuesday afternoon, will be at 18 holes. The remaining four runs, including next Saturday's final, will be over the 36-hole route.

Enemies In Love

Romance is tough going when the two people concerned come from different "thirds of the nation," as Sylvia Sidney and Leif Erikson find out in their new picture together, " . . . one third of a nation . . . " coming Tuesday to the Liberty Theatre. Miss Sidney is a poverty-stricken slum-dweller, Erikson a wealthy tenement-owner, in this frank picture of the nation's housing problem.

Lawyer?

"Young Lincoln ought to use the strength God gave him and go back to blacksmithing!" That was the opinion expressed of Abe's ambitions, as you'll see in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "Young Mr. Lincoln." Below, Henry Fonda in the title role of the Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox opening today at the Liberty Theater.

— YOUNG MR. LINCOLN

'Angels With Dirty Faces' at Uptown Today and Monday

Dedicated to the thousands of slum boys who next week, or next year must choose between crime and honesty, "Angels With Dirty Faces," a powerful document dramatically enacted by James Cagney, Pat O'Brien, the "Dead End" kids, Humphrey Bogart, Ann Sheridan and George Bancroft, comes to the Uptown theatre today and Monday. It tells the story of two boys — ordinary dirty-faced kids, brought up in the teeming slums of a great city — who took opposite roads. One to the shadowy realms of the underworld, the other to priesthood's serene light. The conflict between these two characters, with the lives of thousands of boys as the grim stake, is strong dramatic fare and carries with it a social message. James Cagney and Pat O'Brien have the strongest roles of their careers and each makes the most of the character he brings to life on the screen. Cagney, the hard guy, reckless, daring, invulnerable until he clashes with O'Brien, the priest. Second feature is "Storm Over Bengal."

Two Thousand To Convention

KANSAS CITY, July 8—(AP)—Two thousand women will watch a fashion review in Kansas City next week and then won't try to emulate what they see — at least not all of it.

The women will be delegates to the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs.

The reason they won't follow the styles they see is that the pageant of what the well-dressed woman wears and wore will date back 50 years.

In "Mr. Godey Presents," Mrs. Norma Harrison Thrower and Mrs. Marie Simmelink Kraft, both of Cleveland, will show the influence of the old "Godey's Lady's Book" on both fashions and deportment.

The federation's biennial convention opens Sunday (July 9) and will last through Friday (July 14).

Its theme is "one hundred years of Women's Progress" stressing the fact that in the last century vocations open to women have increased from seven to 500.

Talk By J. T. Montgomery Before Club

Tells Hughesville Group About The Wild Life

J. T. Montgomery gave a very interesting and instructive talk Friday to the Hughesville Extension Club. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Roberts and Miss Bacon of Sedalia. Mrs. Tevebaugh was another hostess chairman assisted by Mrs. C. Bliss, Mrs. H. Conway. Excerpts from Mr. Montgomery's speech are:

"Many years ago this country was full of wild game, turkeys, prairie chickens, wild geese. There were more prairie chickens in Pettis county then than we have had in years. Coons, mostly have gone; beavers built dens in Heath creek. They are all gone but polecat and possum. There is one red grosdeck in Sedalia; used to be here by thousands. Bob-o'-Links have also disappeared.

"Quite a few flowers are preserved on railroads' right of way; phlox, wild pansy, asters, etc. Conservation and preservation in 1935 organized for wild flowers, birds, animals. Trying to bring back to our children's children what we enjoyed when small, leave flowers alone and we will have beautiful flowers along roadsides, yellow buttercups, wild chrysanthemums by acres. Indian paint brush, shooting stars, only found in original prairies; gone with the plowing up of prairies.

"Lady slippers gone, roots used for herbs—yellow and pink. Only few wild flowers left. In 1935 Pennsylvania killed 70,000 deer. All pheasant has disappeared; killing off wild turkeys. Teach children value of wild life. Missouri has 300,000 licenses, Pennsylvania has over 1,000,000. Missouri is best habitat for wild game. A house cat is greatest menace to wild life.

"Value of protection is not only for destruction of insects but for beauty and pleasure of gaining knowledge and entertainment. School of Ozarks has the finest collection of mounted birds in Missouri. Game has been slaughtered by outsiders, so we are trying to bring back wild life to our Ozarks and the rest of Missouri.

"Birds have four migration routes; shore birds and river routes; the robins and sparrows another. Most of our birds winter in South America, and always travel at night."

Mr. Montgomery said when he was young, they didn't have to spray fruit trees because the birds kept the insects from destroying the fruit. "Birds should be protected not only for their intrinsic value but for the pleasure of their songs. Memory lingers on of the beautiful songs, the clear calls of the birds to their mates jest at break of dawn from the orchards that surrounded the home." Mr. Montgomery calls the yellow fly catcher, the Wild Irishman on account of his disposition and his canniness in building his nest. He always uses a snake skin wound around the nest with the tail extending out, thus frightening his enemies away.

Police said tonight they received a report an automobile containing the bandit suspect was seen speeding through Sedgwick, Colo.

The officers said Glen Oldenberg, 21-year-old filling station attendant whom the suspect took as a hostage, was believed with him. They 'are traveling in Oldenberg's car, a 1936 model black (Ford) coupe, police stated.

It was the first report of the whereabouts of the suspect.

Federal agents said the bank loot recovered amounted to $9,550. They said there was no doubt the pair held up the Fort Morgan bank earlier. Pictures of the dead man and his fingerprints were taken in an effort to establish his identification.

Officers said the man had three hearts tattooed on his right arm between the elbow and wrist, linked together and containing the initials "C. L. K." They were the only marks on him, officers stated.

Guests Honored

Mrs. Lillian McCurdy entertained her bridge club at the home of her sister, Mrs. Leland Bealert, in Hughesville July 4th. Honor guests were Mrs. E. S. Heryer of Oklahoma City, Okla., Mrs. Charles Pike of Adrain, Mo., Mrs. Arthur Lindholm of Webster Groves, Mo., Mrs. John Ryan of Sedalia, Mo. Refreshments of banana split and iced fruit juice were served. Each honor guest received a dainty handkerchief and box of sachet powder. The club award went to Mrs. Harold Conway, a crystal relish dish. A crystal compote was presented Mrs. Leland Bealert.

Dolezal, unemployed bricklayer, confessed he burned Mrs. Polillo's head.

Dolezal previously had confessed he killed Mrs. Polillo in an argument over money, the sheriff said.

The heavily-muscled, squat man shielded his face as deputies dug with shovels. They gathered up the bones—none of which appeared to be from a skull—and removed them for examination to determine if they were human.

Loopholes In Story

"I poured a gallon of gasoline over the head and set it afire," O'Donnell quoted Dolezal as saying.

"Then I covered it over. For two years on my way to work and on my way home I stopped and looked to see if the ground was disturbed."

Earlier he had told of throwing the head into lake Erie. This change in the story, with other discrepancies, led O'Donnell to declare several loopholes remained to be closed before he could determine whether the suspect was linked with any of the 11 other killings. A lie detector test was ordered for Dolezal, but held in abeyance.

The print from Mrs. Polillo's decaying thumb was the only fingerprint obtainable from her severed remains, the first of which were found near her home on Jan. 26, 1936, and the other parts later.

George Koestle, as head of the Police Bureau of Criminal Identification, went to work.

The prints were similar to 12,000 others in police files. And there was a big chance that the woman never had been arrested and fingerprinted, officers theorized.

But Koestle started his tedious matching job. When he still had several thousand prints to examine, he matched the solitary print with the record of Mrs. Polillo, once arrested on a vice charge.

A private investigator, Lawrence J. Lyons, followed up this identification after he approached the sheriff months ago with a theory. Lyons thought a place where such murders could be committed—without discovery and the bodies hidden for days—must be soundproof, easily cleaned, and have storage facilities.

He and deputies inspected houses, saloons, vice hangouts and street corners—without result. Then "we knew we had to change the pace," Lyons said.

"We decided to begin with what was known. We decided to look for friends of Mrs. Polillo."

They found Mrs. Polillo had known Mrs. Rose Wallace, 40, negro, victim No. 8. Edward Andrassy, 28, formerly a hospital orderly and victim No. 2, frequented the same near east side district.

A fruit store proprietor told of a man who loved knives and threatened friends and acquaintances with them. This man, they said, was the 52-year-old Dolezal, who had moved from his four-room apartment at 1908 Central avenue at a time police were busy in the district.

Blood stains were found on the bathroom wall and between the tub and wall there. More stains were found on some of his four knives. Dolezal was shadowed, and arrested.

Would Cast Out All Favoritism

BATON ROUGE, La., July 8.—(AP)—Nineteen members of the faculty of Louisiana state university, the former president of which is now in jail on an embezzlement charge, said today the school must be freed of "hidden" faculty bonuses, censorship and political favoritism lest it become an "educational outcast."

First of seven points listed by the professors in a letter to Tom W. Dutton, president of the university alumni federation, as "minimum essentials" to "assure the academic integrity of the university" was complete divorcement from all "political influences."

Other reorganization measures listed as "essential" included:

"There must be an end to the situation whereby a university publication edited by faculty members can be forced by political pressure to alter its content.

"Academic standards must no longer be jeopardized by political favoritism towards students whether through political fellowships and scholarships or in unwarranted grades.

"Promotions in rank and salary must be determined by considerations absolutely divorced from politics. There must be no hidden salary raises in the form of bonuses of 'salary adjustments.'"

Ted Sumner To St. Louis Office

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sumner, of Kansas City, formerly of Sedalia, arrived Saturday en route to St. Louis, where they will be located. Mr. Sumner is employed with the A. T. and T. and has been transferred from the Kansas City to the St. Louis office.

Mr. Sumner, it will remembered, was the young Sedalian who traveled 110,000 miles to complete his college course, all the while working for the A. T. and T. in Sedalia, on night duty, and driving to school each day, first to Warrensburg and then to Columbia.

Navy Strives Against Neptune for Sunken Squalus

Exert Effort To Bring Out Bill On Neutrality

might win the support of both George and Gillette. This would leave the administration on the losing end of a 12-11 vote.

There was speculation, however, that if the administration lost on such a vote, the leadership might bring the issue to the floor quickly with a motion to discharge the committee from consideration of the legislation and take it up in the Senate.

Vice-President Garner was reported authoritatively to have voiced the opinion that nothing like the number of senators said to have subscribed to Friday's opposition statement would join in any filibuster against the legislation.

Administration efforts to win over George and Gillette appeared meanwhile, to be going on apace. Gillette was closeted with Secretary of State Hull several hours yesterday, but would not comment after the conference except to say that he appeared to be "unwittingly in a strategic position" on the committee. He said he also had been approached by two other cabinet officers, whom he did not name, an assertion that gave rise to the general assumption that Mr. Roosevelt was taking a hand indirectly through his cabinet in the capitol hill efforts.

"Hungary Hitler" Behind The Bars

BUDAPEST, July 8.—(AP)—Green-shirted Nazis carrying picnic lunches marched into Budapest today singing out "poor Szalasi is behind the bars waiting to be released to relieve us of slavery."

Behind the bars indeed was Major Fereno Szalasi, the "Hitler of Hungary," but he was more confident than ever that the day is approaching when the nation will call him to lead as dictator.

It is a grandiose destiny the major predicts for himself. Once it was the butt of Budapest jokes. But no longer.

Many conservative Hungarians are worried now by the sudden rise of Szalasi's lieutenants to strategic political power. In the new lower house of parliament 49 members wear his green-shirted uniforms, while scores of government party adherents are reported to be flirting with his ideas.

The fiery Szalasi, behind the bleak walls of Osillag penitentiary, has managed to obtain control of one-fifth of Hungary's legislators.

On Thursday Szlasi completed the first year of a three-year sentence for treason. Already there is talk of circulating a petition for his pardon which would be signed by "one million Nazi voters."

Despite frequent arrests, police raids on his offices and government decrees designed to stamp out the Nazi movement, Szalasi never has wavered in his determination to follow in the footsteps of his idol, Adolf Hitler.

Spent 11 Days In Rumble Seat

SANTA ANA, Calif., —uly 8.—(AP)—A 15-year-old girl who hid for 11 days in the rumble seat of her boy friend's automobile, awaiting an opportunity to elope, was in the custody of juvenile officers today along with the boy.

Donnal Louise Martin, and her friend, Bill Wharton, also 15 and both of Seal Beach, were brought here by Police Chief Lee Howard after the girl's hiding place had been discovered, ending a search by state and federal officers.

During her stay in the car, she was given sandwiches and water by the boy, they told deputy sheriff Walter Tipton.

Meanwhile, young Wharton was working on his automobile, parked in the yard of his home, readying it for the contemplated elopement trip.

The girl's presence was discovered by 8-year-old Donald Nix, a neighbor, who told Chief Howard. Howard said he had questioned young Wharton about Donna's whereabouts but the youth denied knowledge of her and said they had quarreled.

"We thought if Donna disappeared for two or three days everybody would forget about her and we could run away and be married," Wharton told Tipton.

Instead, the girl's mother, Mrs. Richard Martin, notified officers.

Worries For The New Police Board

KANSAS CITY, July 8—(AP)—Some things the new Kansas City police board is going to have to start worrying about:

Who is going to pay for 25 automobiles bought for the department while H. F. McElroy still was city manager? They are listed among last year's unpaid bills, and City Manager Eugene C. Zachman says there is no legal way for them to be paid for out of the current fiscal year's funds.

What is to be done about maintenance of the police building? The present 23 maintenance employes are paid out of city hall funds, but now the police department is to be run on one sixth of city revenue. Are the employes to be paid out of that?

Is the state board to pay for heating and lightning, water and telephone? Or will the city continue to pay the bills out of separate funds?

Can the city require the board to pay the interest on police building bonds? The police act requires the city to turn police property over to the board, and the bonds stand as a mortgage against the building.

How are officers to be paid? Will the board draw its one sixth of city revenue as a lump sum or let the city continue to pay the policemen from month to month?

Something for the city to worry about:

Short-term city liquor licenses expire this month. The city has been using policemen to check up on renewals—and to collect city cigaret taxes.

Zachman said he and the board will have to talk about all these matters.

"I know it is the disposition here to meet the new board with a spirit of cooperation," he said. "Some of the questions involve legal points, and we'll just have to do the best we can."

Nearly Fifty Die From Heat

By The Associated Press

A wave of midsummer heat baked much of the nation from Maine to Texas yesterday (Saturday), sending temperatures to record highs in some states and causing at least 47 deaths.

Only in scattered sections of the heat zone were there forecasts promising a respite today. Warmer weather was predicted for most of the middle west.

Upstate New York, after five hot days, was cooled by thundershowers, but the rain was accompanied by lightning and wind which caused extensive damage.

Metropolitan centers in New Jersey reported temperatures of 94 while at Asbury Park and other seashore resorts a cold southeast wind made it too chilly for bathing. Cool breezes off Lake Michigan held Chicago's temperature to a maximum of 76 during the afternoon.

Giant Flying Boat Takes Air

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., July 8—(AP)—The giant flying boat, Yankee Clipper, soared swiftly today toward England in the first commercial trans-Atlantic flight over the "northern route"—a service which some of its 19 passengers saw as heralding "a better understanding among peoples."

Several thousand miles of ocean but only 24½ hours' time intervened between the silver-hued ship of Pan American Airways and its scheduled arrival at Southampton when it left the waters of Long Island Sound at 7:25 a. m. (CST).

The Clipper took off at 5:01 p. m., (CST) from Botwood for her 1,995-mile flight to Foynes, Ireland. Officials hoped to reach Foynes at 5 a. m. (CST) tomorrow and complete the 3,418-mile flight at Southampton about 8:30 a. m. (CST.)

Sedalia Lodge No. 236 A. F. & A. M., will meet in special communication, on Monday, July 10, at 8 p.m. for work in the Entered Apprentice degree. All Entered Apprentices invited.

Fastest Cat He Ever Chased

That's a cheetah out in front of the greyhound, and he left the speed demon of the canine world practically standing at the post in a recent feature race at Aldershot, England. The spotted pussy was substituted for the usual mechanical rabbit, and in two seconds, from a standing start, was going 45 miles an hour.

Walkout In WPA Ranks Is Still Effective

per cent shut down by Monday morning.

Meanwhile, throughout the nation most projects were closed for the weekend, but there were reports of some small additional walkouts.

With AFL leaders, supported by rival CIO chieftains in a united labor front, pressing for modification of the relief act, a movement was developing in congress to revise the act and restore the old wage scales.

To Work Brief Period

PITTSBURG Kas., July 8.—(AP)—WPA workers in a mass meeting here late today decided by a vote of 425-113 to return to their projects Monday but decided to work only one hour and then strike again in protest of new national orders lengthening working hours on relief jobs.

The decision, leaders said, was in accordance with the announcement of national WPA headquarters that any who stayed off jobs five days automatically would be dropped.

Governor Signs Bill For Control Over K. C. Police

from the executive offices—to sign the bill on the large walnut state table. With him were Greiner, Fiske and Schweiger. Shook was unable to be present.

Near the table stood Rep. W. B. Weakley from Stark's home county of Pike. Weakley introduced and handled the police bill through the House. He also spoke for it at Senate committee hearings.

Speculate on Contest

Almost as soon as the bill was signed speculation renewed over the possibility of court action to block its operation. Sam C. Blair, new municipal counsellor in Kansas City, said recently the city would not contest the measure but there was every indication in the recent legislature that one source or another would push the police bill into court.

That was the reasoning behind the written protests which were attached to the bill when it was sent to Stark for his signature on the last day of the legislature, June 24.

See Commission

The short-term director but department veteran who took over when Otto P. Higgins resigned as the Pendergast machine started to crumble in April only the swearing in of the new police commission before quitting his post.

The position or Robert J. Coffey as police chief was less certain under the new state control, but reports were he would be replaced by Walter Bliss, a federal immigration inspector.

Three members of the new board of police commissioners named by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark today as he signed the state police control bill were on their way back from Jefferson City. They were Russell F. Greiner, George Fiske and Milton B. Schweiger.

Greiner notified Boyle from the capital that the police were under state control but that he was in charge "until further notice."

Boyle's notice to the department, sent out over the police ticker, carried the simple announcement the governor had signed the police measure, then added:

"I call upon you as your leader to see that there is no letdown in your attention to your duties. Continue on with extreme courtesy with the citizens; intensify your safety activities, for safety affects all the members of the community; continue on with the enforcement of all laws, both city and state.

"Your duties or responsibilities are not so much to the person who directs the department but to the citizens of Kansas City, keep faith with the citizens of our city, and let there be no letdown in law enforcement in Kansas City. Put forth every effort to keep Kansas City a good place in which to live."

Commission Sworn In

KANSAS CITY, July 8—(AP)—The new Kansas City police commission was sworn in tonight by Circuit Judge Brown Harris.

The four men, appointed today by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, met with Judge Harris at his home.

They were Edgar Shook, lawyer; Russell F. Greiner, lithographing company executive; George Fiske, manager of an electrical concern branch office, and Milton B. Schweiger, contracting company official.

All but Shook were in Jefferson City today and received their commissions personally from the governor. Shook was in Wichita, Kas., on business.

Governor Stark signed the bill returning the Kansas City police force to state control at the same time he "drafted" the four men as commissioners.

Mayor Bryce B. Smith is an ex-officio fifth member of the board.

Shook is to serve four years. Creiner was named to a 3-year term; Fiske, the only Republican on the board, to a 2-year term, and Schweiger will serve only one year.

New appointments at the end of each year will provide a continuous membership.

Up to the time of taking their oaths, the four commissioners had said nothing about whom they would appoint as chief of police.

"The governor said nothing to us about the naming of a chief," Greiner said. "Of course we cannot discuss such a matter until we are sworn in and have a meeting."

Orders "No Let-Down"

Acting Police Director William M. Boyle remained in temporary charge of the department. His position was abolished under the police bill.

He called on the force tonight to "see that there is no let down in your attention to your duties."

Sedalians Cool Off At Liberty Park Pool

Some Interesting Happenings Around And About Missouri

By ED MILLS

CALIFORNIA, Mo., July 8.—(AP)—While the nation was honoring its Cap Ansons, Ty Cobbs, Connie Macks and other diamond greats of the past through observance of baseball's centennial, Missouri had its own memories of the game as she was played in years that were . . .

The reunion of former horsehide heroes held here didn't go back 100 years . . . But it was rare in that every member of the old Brush Creek nine of 1904 showed up . . . With hair a little gray or missing but still willing to talk over their conquests of 35 years back . . .

Present were John Kaiser, Henry Dearing, Florence Wise, J. E. Steiner, S. E. Lawson, L. G. Comer, Robert Steiner, W. F. Bower, and Charles Eicher . . . And the boys like the territory where they once were terrors to visiting pitchers . . . All but one of them still live in California or on surrounding farms . . . Robert Steiner lives in Kansas City.

While planning your own vacation maybe you'd like to consider—but probably you wouldn't—the trip Tom Herridge took . . . Herridge, 55, rolled back home to Tarkio after a motor scooter tour that carried him to 44 states, five Canadian provinces, Mexico, Cuba and the Bahamas . . . Yes, he had to take a boat for Cuba and the Bahamas, but he worked his way . . . And while on the road he slept in a telescopic trailer . . . Home built . . . Trip took two years and one month.

Couple of rare hobbies turned up in Albany . . . W. I. Reed, retired construction engineer, still builds . . . With cement he has constructed a totem pole, Dutch mill, bird baths, toad stools and a bird house . . . But there's a catch in the latter . . . It's complete but Reed built it for looks not birds so he's glassed in all the openings.

L. Frank Smith is a coin collector . . . But he has no interest in numismatic values . . . His items are Masonic identification "pennies" . . . He has them now from 30 states, the District of Columbia, Nantucket Island, Honolulu, Alaska, Ireland, Scotland, New Zealand, England, Puerto Rico, Nova Scotia, South Africa, Canada and Australia.

Back to vacations for a moment. . . . Charles M. Strong of Macon didn't work as hard on his as did Mr. Herridge of Tarkio . . . But it had a more gruesome ending . . . On the way home from Wisconsin he saw the body of Ray Olson just after that desperado had been cut down by possemen's bullets.

Did any of you other Missourians get a start at the talk of Platte County by a character in "Jubal Troop" way down near the Mexican border? . . . Then suddenly realize again the book was written by Paul Wellman of the Kansas City Star to whom Missouri comes natural . . . Incidentally, we wonder if Platte County still has any tobacco spitters of Reb Haizlipp's caliber.

Vacation again . . . Maybe that's because we're getting the urge as who isn't . . . Only this time it's a vacation job . . . Thirteen-year-old Teddy Ray strom is doing all right by himself with a pet hospital to take care of dogs, etc., for Cape Girardeau folk who leave for the summer.

Just to prove there were a few persons surprised when Joe Louis sent Tony Galento back to his barroom . . . Charles Yancey, of Jefferson City, had to pay off by pushing Charles Lee downtown in a wheel barrow.

A. E. Rainey planned a mock trial as entertainment for the luncheon at which he retired from the Trenton Rotary club presidency . . . Only someone else made other plans . . . So Deputy Sheriff Bill Chrisman showed up, clamped handcuffs and a ball and chain (literal) on the surprised prexy . . . And he became the defendant in an unheralded court case . . . In which his defense attorney even pleaded him innocent on grounds of "insanity" . . . It was at Trenton, too, where the town drum corps picketed the downtown district . . . Claiming "hot weather unfair to drum corps" . . . So they got new, cooler uniforms . . . But, sad to relate, no new weather.

Hate to take a pot shot at a co-worker . . . But wonder if some would be short stops didn't read with delight Hugh Wylie's "Down The Furrow" column in which he opined "Missouri dairymen have allowed thousands of pounds of potential butterfat to slip through their fingers" . . . Butter-fingers in a big way.

If your neighbors' chickens have been bothering your garden maybe you can sympathize with some Springfield residents . . . They say their neighbor runs a reptile garden . . . And his pets also get through the fence . . . The snakes frighten children, the prosecutor told the city council, and our guess is they frighten their share of grownups too.

And if you thought Missouri was going sissy harken to L. E. Huff, city marshall of Brunswick over near the Mississippi . . . He's organized a panther hunt after repeated complaints of cattle farmers.

Report of Sea Scout Activities

Since its organization a few months ago the Sea Scouts Ship Barracuda has been making steady progress. At present 11 members are fully registered and there are an equal number who haven't been able to register yet. Weekly meetings are being held each Tuesday night at 617 Wilkerson, the home of Skipper John Whaley.

Plans for future cruises of three days to a week on the Lake of the Ozarks will be discussed at the next meeting and all members must be spent.

Projects the ship has completed are the finishing of two 12 feet sailboats and repairing of a row boat for our use on Lake Tebo, binding the edges of the dock with rope, putting out mooring bouys in the lake, and putting new locks and hasps on the tool sheds. Through the courtesy of a member of the ship's committee, and we all want to thank him sincerely, lumber was secured for the building of a marine railway at Tebo and thatis nearly finished although we have been able to work on it only on the last two week-ends. A number of Sea Scouts have been out at Tebo every week-end now for more time and have been able to accomplish quite a lot by starting in to clean up. As soon as they got there they were able to get the cabin and groups in good shape for the next scout troop to use them. Boy Scouts of first class rank or over will be taken for a sail if they so desire.

The ship plans several projects in the future and soon after the first of the month, they will start to build their own cabin at Tebo. On the week-end of the 7th they will inaugurate a series of cruises, ranging in length from three days to a week on the Lake of the Ozarks. This week-end we expect most of the crew to be at Tebo and finish the marine railway. Sunday afternoons girl friends of the scouts are coming out for a picnic. It is expected that the ship's committee and their families will be present also.

We wish to thank our sponsors, the Kiwanis club, for the splendid help and cooperation they have shown us. Personnel of the ship is as follows Paul Hedderich, Commodore, Guy T. Callender, and Rev. Rumpf; Skipper, John Whaley; Mate, Harold Withrow; Yeoman, Stanton Hudson, Jr.; Crew Leaders, William Sprecher, Cecil Hill, Norman Hill and Howard DeWolf.

A Man With a Great Opportunity
Text: I Kings 11:26-31, 37-40.

By William E. Gilroy, D. D. Editor of Advance

We have seen how, despite the splendor of Solomon's reign and the glory of his building projects (especially the Temple), the people felt the burden of maintaining all this magnificence. Here and there were indications of revolt, that never broke out effectively, however, until under Rehoboam, Solomon's son.

Much of this discontent seems to have found its center in Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, a servant of Solomon, who turned against his master. Jeroboam is called "a mighty man of valor." It is recorded that he was industrious and evidently ambitious.

Solomon apparently trusted him and gave him large responsibility. From what occurred later on, it would seem that Jeroboam was not moved entirely with the motive of righting the wrongs of the people, but that he had an ambitious and ulterior motive in trying to lead a revolt against Solomon.

When the prophet Ahijah found Jeroboam in a field and tore a new garment into 12 pieces, giving 10 pieces to him he prophesied that Jeroboam would rule over 10 of the 12 tribes of Israel. The prophecy so fitted in with Jeroboam's schemes of ambition that he became active in his opposition to Solomon, with the result that he had to take refuge in Egypt, for Solomon sought to kill him.

Here in Egypt Jeroboam bided his time, but we shall see him in a later lesson returning to Palestine when Rehoboam became king and taking an active part in the expressions of discontent that led to active rebellion and the overthrow of Rehoboam, with the division of Israel into the northern and southern kingdoms.

* * * *

Here was a man with great opportunity, a commoner with kingly power and greatness in his grasp whose personal ambitions coincided with great need in the kingdom for a leader to give the people justice and establish a common welfare.

Jeroboam might have become even a greater man than Solomon, but Jeroboam loved power too much and justice too little, and we shall see how he also failed in the day of his opportunity.

These lessons emphasize the human elements that in some form or other have been present in all history, and that are not absent even from an American democracy where we have no kings. Here in our own history we have seen men who have served their masters with treachery in their hearts, and who have professed to become leaders of popular causes where a chief concern has been for their own aggrandizement and power.

Here also innumerable men in the ranks have had great opportunity for greatness, but it is the exceptional ones who have risen above their love of power and their schemes of personal ambition to find the real greatness in identification of their aspirations with the common cause and with the true service of the people.

A large force of men was called back to work in the freight shed the past week to take care of a box car program now under way in that department this month. These cars are of the 93,000 series class and the process of working them is interesting. The cars are first brought to the stripping track by the yard switch engine. The stripping track being located at the west end of the freight shed and there all of the siding, deck, running boards and all wood equipment is removed. The steel frame is then sand blasted after which the same is painted with red lead to prevent rusting. On this assembly line workers are stationed at different places for certain work and as the cars are moved along, the deck, siding, saddles, running board and other wood equipment is placed on the car in their respective places. At the end of the line, located at the east end of the freight shed, the trucks are reworked and new wheels and material applied where needed.

The cars are then moved to the paint tracks west of the shed where the trucks, underframe, sides and roofs are painted by a crew of painters also the lettering, and finishing touches are added to complete the job.

Creams and Lotions Help Minimize Sunburn, but Why Not Be Sensible?

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

This is the season when young men and women dress in skimpy bathing suits and lie around in the sunlight trying to acquire the coloration which seems synonymous with health. Unfortunately, many a weak constitution is covered by a coat of tan.

Nevertheless the style is for tanning and there are now available all sorts of preparations which are believed to encourage tanning without burning on very slight exposure to the sun.

Most of the ointments that are sold for this purpose contain substances which are able to prevent the passing of the short ultraviolet rays of light from the sun or at least to prevent their passage in part. Indeed, most ointments have a similar effect, so that ordinary zinc oxide ointment or even boric acid ointment will prevent to some extent burning of the skin and will thus encourage tanning without burning.

Ordinary suntan cream usually contains a base of lanolin or wool fat with coconut oil and also some borax, zinc oxide and perfumed ingredients. Another suntan ointment contains a chemical which is supposed to prevent the passing of the ultraviolet rays of the sun as well as the heat rays. These preparations usually contain a chemical called di-sodium-naphthol-sulphanate.

Another type of preparation is a lotion called a suntan lotion. Usually tannic acid is one of the ingredients of this lotion and it actually does tan the skin itself without waiting for the sun's rays to help out.

Of course, the proper procedure from a hygienic point of view is to enjoy the sunlight to the extent of mild tanning with out burning. Anyone ought to be sensible enough to know that the gradual tanning of the skin is better than trying to get tan in a single day.

With such rapid tanning, burning is more likely to result. The best advice is to permit the strong sunlight to act on the skin for only three to four minutes the first day and to increase the stay in the sun one or two minutes daily so that by the end of the week, the skin will be sufficiently tanned to act itself as a protective against burning.

• Raising a Family

"Contrariness" Is Natural Stage in Child's Growth

What is often mistaken for perverseness in a small child is simply his unwillingness to imitate any longer.

At first, when he is toddling around after mother at her work, he will gleefully copy everything she does. He "telephones," calls people by the names she gives them and copy-cats her very tone of voice. Then gradually he loses the thrill of it.

This is because he is getting into the constructive stage, and that means the development of imagination with a vengeance. All is grist to his mill now, and he resents any interference with invention. What he does is his own idea, right or wrong. He does not stop to think of that.

A wise mother will allow for it as much as possible. She will not become impatient when Jimmy won't copy the boat she has drawn, but instead, makes a cross and calls it a man. In this child's pride and stubborn newborn ego, he rather glorifies in discarding any suggestion.

His puzzled mother cannot understand how the child can change so quickly. Just a month or so ago, anything she suggested went over so well.

"He just takes what I give but he won't listen to my wishes," she thinks. And he is right, more or less. The child uses to his advantage everything provided, but he will reserve the right to use them according to the dictates of his mind. And now his mind is going to be a perfect chameleon.

Nature Is A Non-Conformist

When Jimmy gets older, he will still be impatient of being told. This is hard to understand. But it all fits in with the growing ego that says to any man "Do as you like. That is YOU. Don't let anyone else interfere. You will grow better if you do entirely as you please." That is nature talking. Nature does not take into consideration the idea of conformity, the basis of control and self discipline.

Of course, in time, what with seeing other people as examples and being conditioned to taking suggestion and advice, this child will know better. But in the meantime he is only being true to himself.

163-Year-Old Mystery Of California Swallows

IT is not probable that birds have knowledge of calendars and dates, but the swallows of San Juan Capistrano Mission, near San Diego, Calif., have set a remarkable record in timing their annual flights. For 163 years the swallows have arrived at the Mission on March 19 and departed seven months later, on Oct. 23.

Legend records the first arrival of the swallows on the day the Mission was completed, March 19, 1776. Attested records of the past half century show that their coming has never varied, even during leap year.

Each year the arrival of the flight is the signal for a battle with swifts, who take possession of abandoned nests during the winter. After the swifts are ousted, the swallows move in, raise their broods, remain until Oct. 23.

At dawn on that day, Mission authorities say, each swallow takes a last drink from the fountain in the courtyard, then flies west across the Pacific. Where they winter is also a mystery, although a similar species is found in Palestine. Ornithologists have not explained their flight across the vast landless areas of the Pacific.

The swallow is shown on the Liechtenstein airmail stamp above, violet, of the photogravure series of 1939.

Wheat Down Over Cent a Bushel

CHICAGO, July 8—(AP)—Depressed by prospects of a huge Canadian wheat crop and by heavy marketings of U. S. grain as harvesters progress northward, world wheat prices today slumped more than a cent a bushel to the lowest levels in several years in some markets.

Chicago wheat closed ⅝ to 1¼ cent lower than yesterday, at the lowest quotations of the year and the lowest for July in seven years. Final figures of 66½ to 66⅝ for July contracts and 61½ to 67⅝ were only 1½ to 4 cents above the season's bottom and were about 14 cents below the highs established a month ago. Corn fell to new lows since 1934.

Liverpool prices also were ¾ to 1¼ off at the lowest point in nine years. Winnipeg quotations, which dropped 2½c yesterday, tumbled about 1½c at one stage to lew lows for the past several years. There were moderate rallies at Chicago and Winnipeg from the day's bottom levels, however.

The Canadian government report showing the wheat crop condition to be 102 per cent of a long time average caused some grain men to estimate winter and spring wheat production in Canada may total as high as 450 or 460 million bushels, largest in 11 years and the fourth largest on record.

The U. S. government will release its July forecast Monday and many traders anticipate that improved production possibilities may be revealed in view of recent good weather.

Other grains slumped with wheat, corn losing ½c to ⅞c, oats 1⅛c to ½c, and rye ¾c to ⅞c. Lard closed unchanged to 5 cents lower.

The close put July corn at 46¼c to 46⅜c and September at 47¾c to 47⅞c, only slightly above the day's lows which were the lowest witnessed in the corn trade in five years. There were reports from southern Illinois, southeastern Missouri and parts of Kansas that hot weather is causing some complaint about corn but no damage has been done as yet.

Says Goebbels DID Get Beating

Supporting vast December's rumors from Germany, Gita Alpar, Hungarian film star shown with daughter, Julika, says that her ex-husband, actor Gustav Froelich, did attack, beat Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels. But, she says, assault occurred at least year earlier than that, and December attack must have been waged by Froelich's friends.

Some Gains By Selected Stocks

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—The stock market made a few feeble recovery gestures today, then resumed the slumber which it started at the beginning of the week.

While some utilities, coppers, rubbers, mail orders and specialties managed to emerge with modest advances, numerous issues finished unchanged to down a shade.

Attendance in board rooms was virtually at zero, many traders electing to lengthen the weekend holiday. Dealings, consequently, were exceptionally light. In fact, the turnover of 113,320 shares was one of the smallest two-hour aggregates in 21 years. Actually it was the lowest volume since June 18, last year, when the figure of 104,000 shares was the most diminutive since 1918. It compared with 185,400 a week ago. Dealings for the week amounted to only 1,442,130 shares, lowest mark since 1921. In the preceding week 3,126,290 shares changed hands.

Losses and gains of fractions to a point or so were about equally divided at the finish with the result the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 46.2 due to a run-up Wednesday, following the Fourth of July recess, this composite showed a net advance on the week of .7 of a point.

There was no change for the worse in the foreign picture, and business prospects on the home front continued moderately bright. Bullishness, however, apparently was restrained by spreading labor troubles centering in General Motors and the WPA.

Among the day's gainers were Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Edison, North American, Anaconda, Great Northern, J. C. Penney and N. Y. Shipbuilding.

Bonds and commodities were irregularly lower.

Return From Crops Stored

One of the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration Farm program is commodity loans to support prices and enable farmers to obtain a return from their crops while storing them under seal on their farms. Wheat is one of the commodities on which loans are available.

An eligible producer to secure a wheat loan is a person, partnership, association or corporation producing wheat as a landlord, landowner or tenant on whose farm the 1939 wheat acreage allotment has not been exceeded.

Farmers desiring to make an application for a wheat loan should contact the county agricultural conservation committee in the county in which the wheat is produced. Wheat on which loans are secured may be stored on the farm if farm storage meets requirements or in subterminal and terminal warehouses. The three subterminal warehouses nearest Pettis county that have been approved are: Knob Noster Elevator Company, Knob Noster, Missouri; Pike Grain Company, Sweet Springs, Missouri; Boonville Mills Company, Boonville, Missouri.

Wheat loans on farm storage mature on April 30, 1940; on warehouse loans, seven months from date of note. The interest rate on all wheat loans is 4 per cent per annum. However, if the wheat is delivered to the Commodity Credit Corporation at the maturity date of the loan the Commodity Credit Corporation bears the interest charges, secondary insurance and reimburses the farmer 7c per bushel storage on farm storage wheat. On terminal storage wheat the Commodity Credit Corporation bears the interest, secondary insurance and storage charge for seven-month period.

The loan value by grade for hard winter and red winter wheat on the farm in Pettis county is as follows: No. 1 grade 68c; No. 2 grade 67c, No. 3 grade 65c; No. 4 grade 62c; and No. 5 grade 59c. Grades No. 4 and 5 must test No. 3 or better except for weight.

Each producer who applies for a farm storage loan must pay a $3 preliminary sealing fee or 1c per bushel for each bushel stored, which ever is larger. The preliminary fee is a minimum fee and is not to be refunded. The fee for a terminal storage loan is ¼c per bushel with a minimum fee of $1.50.

Wheat stored on the farm must have been stored in the granary at least thirty days prior to the inspection for measurement, sampling, and sealing. Eligible wheat for loans shall contain not more than 14 per cent moisture. Reports coming to the county agricultural conservation office from subterminal warehouses indicate that the wheat that is now being combined has a moisture content in excess of 14 per cent which makes it ineligible for a loan unless it is dried out. Warehouse men are cautioning wheat growers on delivering wheat of high moisture content for storage.

Additional information in regard to wheat loans may be secured from the county committee or at the county office.

Confessed Torso Slayer Returns To Scene

Frank Dolzil, right, 52-year-old bricklayer, who confessed slaying Mrs. Florence Polillo, one of Cleveland's 13 torso murder victims, is held by Cuyahoga County Jailer Michael Kilbane as he is led to the spot on the shores of Lake Erie where he said he threw the woman's head in the water. This was the only picture of Dolzil taken during the tour of the scenes of incidents in the crime. With a handkerchief Dolzil repeatedly covered his face.

Cannon Enjoyed Ocean Flight

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—Back in Washington after a quick flight to England and return aboard a giant clipper, Representative Cannon (D-Mo) predicts that within a year or two airplanes will carry the "cream" of traffic to Europe.

"The trans-Atlantic airplane will do for shipping lines what the United States airlines have done for railroads," Cannon said.

"We were a little cautious on this pioneer trip but we took only 30 hours and 14 minutes actual flying time from one continent to another and back."

Cannon was gone from his Washington office exactly one week. During that week he flew the Atlantic and back, visited in England and Ireland, watched parliament in action and talked with leaders and citizens about military, economic and political affairs.

"I don't think they are going to have a war in Europe immediately," Cannon said. "Some of the leaders seem apprehensive about the situation, but in cities generally they have become accustomed to the atmosphere and there is little noticeable activity."

Cannon enjoyed his trans-Atlantic flight and would "go again in a minute if I had the opportunity."

"There was never a dull moment," he related. "There was a fine group of men aboard and there always was something doing.

"No one was frightened. There was no danger because if two of the four motors had stopped we still could have flown. If all the motors went out we would have settled on the water like a big boat and contacted a nearby ship by radio.

"It was very comfortable in the air."

Cannon said he met many interesting persons during his brief stay in England and Ireland and he believed more congressmen should take such trips to avoid becoming too provincial in Washington.

Direct Relief Funds Be Cut

JEFFERSON CITY, July 8—(AP)—The social security commission decided Friday to make an immediate 50 per cent reduction in direct relief expenditures in an effort to make the $6,500,000 legislative appropriation last through the biennium.

As a result, the relief allotment to be made next week for the last half of July will be only about half the $190,109 provided for the first two weeks of this month, administrator George I. Haworth announced.

The commission's decision was contained in a brief resolution adopted in today's all-day meeting called to study the problem created by the legislative appropriation of only a little more than one half the amount anticipated in expenditures during the first six months of this year.

During that period $2,551,000 was spent under authority of a special legislative resolution permitting allotments up to $500,000 a month—leaving only $3,949,000 for the remaining 18 months of the 1939-40 biennium.

As a part of the reduction program, "In so far as possible all employable persons and families of employable persons will be removed from the direct relief rolls."

Gain Is Made In Poplar Bluff Postoffice

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., July 8—(AP)—Attention: Mr. Farley.

There is one postoffice which has shown a gain in business despite conditions. Dr. Z. Lee Stokely, postmaster at Poplar Bluff, revealed today the local office had an increase of six per cent in business last year.

"I doubt," said Stokely, "if you'll find another postoffice in our classification with such an increase."

This Week In Missouri History

Compiled by The State Historical Society of Missouri, at Columbia. Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary, July 9-15, 1939.

General Nathaniel Lyon Commanding Union Officer at Boonville and Wilson's Creek

General Nathan Lyon, a small red-headed Connecticut Yankee, did more than any other man to open the Civil war in Missouri. An experienced soldier, he followed the course of duty as he saw it, boldly and swiftly, with out regard for his personal safety or consideration for the feeling or welfare of others, and in so doing he plunged the State into the abyss of civil strife.

General Lyon was born at Aahford, Connecticut, on July 14, 1818, one hundred and twenty-one years ago this week. The day after his graduation from West Point at the age of twenty-three he was appointed lieutenant-colonel in the 2nd regiment of U. S. Infantry, which was fighting the Seminole Indians in Florida. He objected to the government's policy of sending soldiers to the Texas frontier, but did distinguished service at Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo and the City of Mexico. Transferred from the Pacific Coast to the middle west in 1854, he was stationed for short periods in Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri, but spent the most of his time in "Bleeding Kansas."

Obtained Commission

Immediately after his assignment to the St. Louis arsenal on February 6, 1861, he took steps to strengthen the Union cause in Missouri. With the help of Francis Preston Blair, Jr., he obtained a brigadier-general's commission and took command of the Union forces in St. Louis. While others hesitated, undecided as to the best course, Lyon seized Camp Jackson, thereby sounding the doom of peace in Missouri. In a clash between some of the spectators and Lyon's men one soldier and a few innocent bystanders were killed. Atrocious stories spread throughout the State. Defenseless men, women, and children were reported to have been shot, and otherwise sensible people expected the St. Louis "Dutch" to overrun the state. Public opinion seemed to crystalize overnight and Missouri became an armed camp.

All hope of reconciling the northern and southern leaders was wrecked on June 12 when a conference between Lyon, Blair, Sterling, Price and Governor Jackson broke up with the conclusion that "This means war." Jackson fled from St. Louis to Jefferson City, burning bridges as he went, and issued a call for 50,000 men. The next day Lyon sent Col. Franz Sigel with a small body of men into southwest Missouri to cut off the retreat of the pro-southern state forces, while he pushed up the Missouri river with some 2,000 regulars. Two days later he took possession of Jefferson City and on June 17 he defeated the governor's forces under Col. John S. Marmaduke at Boonville. In the short space of five days he had had quick and decisive action seived the capital, gained control of the Missouri river, and greatly weakened the southern cause in the State.

Lyon's military plan was sound and simple, and if he had received the support of his superiors the military struggle for Missouri would have probably ended in a few days. With Sigel in the southwest to harass the retreat of the southern army, Lyon pursued the defeated troops, reaching Springfield on July 13. Unwilling to retreat, but unable to gain reinforcements, he decided to attack with his small army of 5,400 the combined forces of Price and McCulloch, over 10,000 men. Marching to the enemies' camp on Wilson Creek, about ten miles southwest of the city, he made the attack on August 10, 1861. After five hours of able fighting, the daring general fell fatally wounded in the thigh and head and shot through the chest. His death was mourned throughout the North.

The wisdom of Lyon's course at Camp Jackson and Wilson's Creek may be questioned, but never his patriotism, and in spite of the defeat of his troops at Wilson's Creek his work did much to hold Missouri for the Union. He gave not only his life for his country, but he willed to the government $30,000, almost his entire estate for the purpose of carrying on the war.

Williams Guilty Of Conspiracy

Charles "Pinkie" Williams, charged with conspiring to rob the Bank of Green Ridge, pleaded guilty in the justice court of J. C. Connor Saturday morning, and was given thirty days in the county jail.

Williams, who is not in good health, has already served two weeks in the county jail, and will be transferred from the jail to the hospital where he will be given treatment.
